

FINAL REBEL DRIVE ON MADRID IS EXPECTED TODAY WITH FASCISTS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY IN TEN DAYS

Constitution Fall Garden School To Open Today

'GARDEN DESIGN' IS LECTURE TOPIC OF FIRST SESSION

Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, noted horticulturist, to give practical demonstrations of way to assure best results.

BIG FASHION SHOW PRECEDES SESSION

School will be held at Woman's Club for three days, doors opening at 9 o'clock each morning.

The event which has attracted the attention and anticipation of all homemakers and gardeners in the Atlanta area for the past several weeks will begin today.

The Constitution fall garden school will go into a three-day session this morning at the Atlanta Woman's Club. Doors will open at 9 o'clock, with a 20-minute fashion show at 10 o'clock, followed by lectures and demonstrations on modern and scientific gardening by Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, nationally-known horticulturist.

Gaining year by year in the opinion of Atlantans as a means of beautifying the city through improvement in individual and school gardens, the Constitution garden school this fall promises to be the most enjoyable and most instructive yet presented to the city. Mrs. Crown, well known to residents of this section as an authority on all phases of gardening and as a highly entertaining speaker, will supplement her talks during the three days of gardening classes with various practical demonstrations and the use of slides.

Starting out this morning on the subject, "Designing Your Own Garden," Mrs. Crown's talk is highly anticipated.

Shop Sold by Leoles, New Owner Flies Flag

The American flag will be in evidence beneath the hat cleaning shop formerly occupied by George Leoles, naturalized Greek, who yesterday quieted the controversy over his regard for the flag by himself and his daughter by announcing he had sold his establishment and intended leaving Atlanta in a short time.

With two white-robed Ku Klux Klansmen and a private citizen picking his shop for several days, his trade dropped to practically nothing, Leoles said.

Leoles announced he had sold his shop to C. A. Dollar, who immediately began to change the name of the establishment and put out an American flag.

The attitude of the naturalized Greek came into prominence when his 12-year-old daughter, Dorothy, was refused admission to the Atlanta school system for her refusal to pledge allegiance to the flag.

'Wally' Gets Divorce Today; King's Aides Talk Marriage

Buckingham 'Order' Clears Ipswich of Newsreel Cameramen.

By The Associated Press.
IPSWICH, England, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Discussion among members of the royal entourage as to whether King Edward would marry his American companion, Mrs. Ernest "Wally" Simpson, gained impetus tonight with the virtual certainty that she would be granted a speedy divorce tomorrow.

All newsreel photographers withdrew from Ipswich, and a reliable source said they acted in accordance with a request from Buckingham palace, King Edward's official residence.

Mrs. Simpson herself remained at Falmouth tonight, and friends said she would attend court Tuesday with her counsel and one woman friend, while the king will preside over the divorce in London preparatory to the reassembling of parliament Thursday.

Head of Church Reportedly Will Refuse To Crown Edward King

By VIRGIL PINKLEY.
LONDON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—On the eve of Mrs. Ernest Simpson's divorce, Fleet street—London's "newspaper row"—tonight was startled by a report that the Archbishop of Canterbury has decided it is impossible for him to officiate at the coronation of King Edward next May.

According to the report, the archbishop's decision is "personal," based on the fact that he not only is head of the church of England but is the spiritual adviser of Queen Mary, as he was to the late King George. He is distressed at his inability to influence the present sovereign, the report added.

It is known that the aged ecclesiastic is opposed to the king's association with Mrs. Simpson. The archbishop's decision is "personal," based on the fact that he not only is head of the church of England but is the spiritual adviser of Queen Mary, as he was to the late King George. He is distressed at his inability to influence the present sovereign, the report added.

QUIZ OF BRADLEY FAILS TO UNCOVER BOND FIRM DATA

Erstwhile President of Defunct Corporation Reveals Poor Memory on Stand Before Receivers.

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
Benjamin R. Bradley, memory failed him yesterday as he kept, unwillingly, a rendezvous with his receivers.

Lawyers representing trustees of the bankrupt American Bond & Share Corporation and its equally bankrupt affiliate companies: lawyers representing investors; lawyers representing surety bond companies and lawyers representing interested, but anonymous clients, gathered at a hearing yesterday in which Bradley was to tell all and—Bradley told nothing.

Referee in Bankruptcy Harry Dodd presided, offering no obstacles as Clarence H. Calhoun, chief counsel for the trustee, Thomas M. Stubbs, chief counsel of the hearing and attempted to draw Bradley out.

Bradley suavely and courteously answered all questions as they tried to jog his memory about transactions that the trustee and his accounting experts cannot understand.

Stock Reply.
Bradley would examine bundles of checks, adjust his glasses and pore intently over trading sheets; ask that difficult questions be repeated so their meaning would be clear, but his answers largely revolved around a stock reply, offered earnestly and in a quiet voice.

"It has been so long," with a helpless shrug of his shoulders, "this is just one of a few transactions," or "These securities belong possibly to some of the investors."

His answer always to questions about the present whereabouts of missing securities was:

"I really don't know."

"Fishing Expedition."

The hearing yesterday was what is known to the legal profession as a "fishing expedition." Calhoun was in a "fishing expedition."

STATE DEMOCRATS UNITE TO AID F. D. R.

Executive Committee Organized; Farley, Rivers Both Send Greetings.

The state Democratic executive committee, holding its initial meeting, organized for the next two years last night and voted to unite in its effort to assist Roosevelt leaders in raising needed campaign funds for the balance of the presidential drive.

The committee, which was feely by Chairman Charles S. Reid at a dinner at a downtown hotel preceding the meeting, adopted resolutions praising the administration of President Roosevelt and lamenting the illness of Clark Howell, national committeeman and editor of The Constitution. It received congratulations from National Chairman James A. Farley, Governor-nominee E. D. Rivers, who is on a speaking tour in behalf of the President, and from L. W. Robert Jr., a member of the committee, who is secretary to the national committee and is on duty at Democratic headquarters in New York.

Need for Funds.
Both Chairman Reid and Cam D. Dorsey, state finance director for the Democratic party in Georgia and state chairman of the national council of Roosevelt, urged the committee to need for funds to complete President Roosevelt's drive for re-election, and members of the committee promised to give immediately.

Mayor Zerk Arnold, of Fort Gaines, a vice chairman of the group, George L. Googe, of Savannah, and Mrs. Helen W. Coxon, of Ludowici, also gave their support to the gathering.

Governor-nominee Rivers also urged strong support of Mr. Dorsey and his organization.

The committee unanimously elected Mayor Zerk Arnold, of Fort Gaines, a vice chairman of the group, George L. Googe, of Savannah, and Mrs. Helen W. Coxon, of Ludowici, also gave their support to the gathering.

Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, of Louisville, Democratic national committeewoman, spoke briefly. She urged a large vote for President Roosevelt in the election next Tuesday and called upon the committee to see that the vote turns out. Mrs. Price presented the resolution naming National Committeeman Howell's illness. It was adopted by a rising vote in tribute to Mr. Howell's long service for the party in Georgia.

The resolution praising the Roosevelt administration was presented by Mrs. John A. Beasley, of Crawfordville, a committee member.

The message of Governor-nominee Rivers, which came from Sandusky, Ohio, where he spoke last night, follows:

"Heartiest greetings, My heart, mind and prayers are with you and the committee. That Georgia Democracy did outstanding service for the national ticket in our state primary greets me everywhere. Let's finish the job by raising our quota of needed funds for the national party to use in doubtful states and by getting every

Farm Wife Is Slain By Patterned Shots

WILTON CENTER, Ill., Oct. 26. (UP)—Mrs. Elsie Lichtenwalter, 41-year-old farm wife, was murdered in her home today with a cold precision that authorities considered evidence of madness or vengeance.

The shots that killed her were spaced through each breast, one through each arm, another through the abdomen, and one through a leg. A seventh shot, which missed, apparently was intended for the other leg.

Her husband, Floyd, 40, a prosperous farmer, said he discovered the murder after he returned to the farm where, he said, he was met by James Williams, a hired man. "He had a rifle in his hands and said: 'Get out of that car. I'm a member of a bad kidnap gang and we're going to kidnap George (Lichtenwalter's son). You get in the house or we'll kill you.'"

Forced into the house, his hands were bound and adhesive tape put over his eyes. Then he was locked in a bedroom closet upstairs.

MURDER CHARGED TO FIVE MEN, GIRL

Quartet Caught Fleeing, Two Others Arrested at Filling Station Here.

DeKalb county police yesterday placed murder charges against five men and a girl allegedly connected with the slaying Sunday night of George Ward, at his filling station on the DeKalb highway.

It also became apparent, Captain Edward Foster, of the DeKalb police reported, that Clark Adamson, of Elleno, Ga., a customer in the place who was seriously wounded in the interchange of gun fire, was wounded accidentally by a pistol in Ward's hands.

Adamson himself told police he believed he had been wounded by the revolver of the man who was in the car. Captain Foster said the position of the wounds and Adamson's description of where he had been shot, the lowest thing on his earth, which is motherhood.

Accompanied by Girl.
The sextet held in the shooting are Alvin Krey and his companion, Thomas Portson, 18, and four youths who were picked up on the highway when the four agreed to share in the evening's expenses.

These four are listed as Charles Oakes, 16; Jack Goughly, 17; Rich-

NAZIS ASK BRITAIN TO BACK ANTI-REDS

Von Ribbentrop Bares Aim of Visit; Lisbon Lays War to Moscow.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Communism—described by the Nazi envoy as "the most terrible of all diseases"—drew a double-barreled attack from two Fascist European states tonight.

Almost before his train stopped at Victoria station, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, "personal ambassador" for Reichschancellor Adolf Hitler, lashed out with a stinging assault against the Soviets, coupled with a renewed plea for Anglo-German friendship.

"Der Fuehrer is convinced the only real danger for Europe and the British empire as well, is the spreading of Communism," he told a top-ranking German delegation.

"Germany wants the friendship of Great Britain."

"Close collaboration between our two countries in this sense is not only important but in my opinion is a vital necessity in our common struggle for upholding our civilization and our culture," he added.

The second blow came from Portugal, allied with Germany and Italy in Russian accusations of alleged aid to Spanish insurgents, which charged Soviet agitators with being responsible for the situation in Spain provoking the Fascist rebellion.

Russia, the Portuguese declared in a note to the international neutrality committee, incited the Spanish revolt and attempted to carry out a plan to Sovietize the entire Iberian peninsula including Portugal.

Informed sources said the British were backing up the Portuguese denial of helping Spanish insurgents in their attempt to overthrow the Madrid Socialist government. These same sources were represented, however, as still pondering whether Germany is as much in the clear.

Lord Plymouth called members of a subcommittee to meet tomorrow to explore new measures of enforcing the 27-nation non-intervention agreement in preparation for the general session Wednesday.

In the meantime, Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, was drafting a second message to the Madrid government in an attempt to win freedom for Socialist-held hostages. The first was turned down on the ground there were no Fascist prisoners.

ISOLATED CAPITAL RUSHES ALL MEN TO DEFENSE LINES

Portugal Blames Russia for War in Spain; Alliance of Germany, Italy and Japan To Erase Communism Is Reported

3 ARAGON STATES LEAVE CATALONIA

Last Rail Connection Between Madrid and Outside Source of Supplies Is Reported Severed.

By The Associated Press.

Complete isolation of Madrid, with the capital's fall imminent "within three to ten days," was claimed today by the Burgos insurgent provisional government. There were evidences that the "big push" would get under way this (Tuesday) morning.

Fascist troops, in dispatches from Lisbon, were reported to have cut Madrid's rail connection with El Escorial, in the northwest sector, and with Aranjuez, strategic communications center in the southeast.

Soviet Russia was held responsible for the situation in Spain from which arose the bloody civil war in fresh charges filed with the international non-intervention committee in London. It was said that the English representatives felt Portugal was blameless and Russia was the real violator.

Five Fascist bombing planes engaged in a sortie over the capital, dropped a few small bombs on Barajas airport and did slight damage. The insurgent ships were driven away by government anti-aircraft guns.

Hint Japanese Pact.
In Rome, alignment of Italy, Germany and Japan in a common front against Communism was hinted by Virginia Gayda, authoritative writer for the newspaper Giornale d'Italia.

Three Aragonese provinces in northeastern Spain broke away from the Catalan government and established a provisional regime under Anarchist Joachim Aguirre, declared dispatches reaching Perpignan, France.

The fresh allegation against the Moscow government was made in the Portuguese reply to Russian charges that Lisbon was sending military aid to the Fascists.

Soviet agitators, it was charged, not only created a situation in Spain which resulted in the Fascist rebellion but also attempted to sow the seeds of revolt in authoritarian Portugal.

Chicagoan, Daughter Die in 12-Story Plunge

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 26. (AP)—A man identified as J. A. McPherson, 45, Chicago advertising man, and his 10-year-old daughter, Joan, fell to their deaths today from the 12th floor of the Plaza hotel.

The girl fell first, striking near an entrance. A crowd gathered quickly about her body. The spectators scolded screaming a moment later when they first heard, then saw McPherson falling.

The two registered at the hotel Saturday night.

Justice of the Peace Bat Corrigan returned inquest verdicts of murder and suicide.

'Martin Peace,' His Past a Blank, Is Identified as Fort Worth Youth

"Martin Peace" youthful amnesia victim who took that name because the initials "M. P." were inscribed on the back of a watch in his possession, was given his real name yesterday by a rural mail carrier in College Park.

Chief of Police Moore, of College Park, said the identification was made by Route 5 mail carrier whom he knew only as a Mr. Mauldin. The mail carrier is a former resident of Texas, and the account of "Martin Peace" in The Constitution and the account of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram tallied exactly.

"Martin Peace" is Dwight Saunders, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Saunders, of suburban Fort Worth. Since Dwight, a prominent student at the University of Texas, Austin, where he is student secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has been missing from school, his mother has been confined to her bed, prostrated with grief.

Mr. and Mrs. Saunders personally instituted an intensive search for their missing son a short time after he failed to return to his room at the university. Going to Austin, they reported they found his room to contain all his effects with the exception of the clothes he wore, and all evidences pointed to the probability he had gone to bolster the Catalan defense organization was reported imminent by Portuguese citizens arriving in Lisbon from Barcelona, seat of the autonomous government of Catalonia sympathetic with the Madrid Socialist administration.

FINAL REBEL ATTACK MAY BEGIN TODAY

The lumbering insurgent advance against the capital shifted into low gear at three points in the offensive line. One column operating around El Escorial pushed its outposts three miles closer to Madrid.

Fascist commanders on the Maqueda-Madrid highway, with operating headquarters at Navalcarnero, surrounded the war map as strong reinforcements poured into their camps ready for the order to begin anew the attack against the capital's strong outposts.

In Paris the Communist International Federation of Unions and the Socialist Workers' Internationale voted to request affiliated labor unions throughout the world to prevent supplies reaching the Spanish Fascists.

Members who attended the meeting said the organizations probably would call for transportation and dock workers' strikes against shipments to the insurgent forces.

Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff made public a letter at Moscow from Spanish Premier Francisco Largo Caballero expressing Spain's gratitude for "the sympathy of the populace of the U. S. S. R. with our heroic struggles."

BELGIUM PONDERS ARMY FRENCH LINE
BRUSSELS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The possibility that the Belgian government, which until recently has had a strongly pro-French foreign policy, will ask parliament tomorrow to fortify the French frontier as the German border was debated in parliament circles tonight.

Such a radical departure from Belgium's traditional stand, it was asserted in some quarters, will be brought forward as part of Belgium's new modified neutrality plans which the government intends to define at a special parliamentary session opening at 2 p. m.

Usually informed sources forecast, however, the cabinet pronouncement probably will affirm the government's desire to stand by its existing accords together with an equal wish to keep out of any new alliance.

The government's statement was expected to be an "interpretation of King Leopold's interpretation" of Belgium's foreign policy, made in a speech October 15.

INSURGENTS PREPARE FINAL RUSH ON MADRID

ON MADRID BATTLEFRONT, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Fascist besiegers of Madrid fingered their rifles tonight, waiting for the "zero hour" which many insurgent leaders said might come Tuesday morning.

The waried defenders of Madrid tonight fervently pleaded with their fighting forces to mass into a "human avalanche" against the invaders menacing their city.

Urgently they demanded swift counter-attacks on the Fascist advance units to prevent fratricidal blood from spilling into the gutters of sunny Madrid.

The capital was emptied of all able-bodied men and youths as the government defenders sought to force a battle on the outskirts of the city rather than wait until the attackers should gain the city's gates.

A communique issued by the Fascist provisional government at Burgos simultaneously declared that rail communication from Madrid was severed at El Escorial, northwest of the capital, and at Aranjuez, to the southwest.

(Aranjuez, variously reported captured and recaptured on several occasions by the opposing high commands, is a strategic rail center giving the capital vital access to eastern coastal cities such as Barcelona and Valencia.)

The insurgent attack, the defenders of Madrid threw a strong line of militia, from Valdemoro (17 miles south of Madrid) about two miles south and east.

All in all, the government lines appeared to have held fairly firm throughout the day of sporadic Fascist attacks, with a stubborn government counter-attack reported successful in the El Escorial sector northwest of Madrid.

The government forces ringing their capital were strongly entrenched, with cement pill-boxes for their machine gunners and deep, barricaded trenches for their infantry lines.

The insurgent leaders professed no concern over the government bulwarks, however, pointing out that thus far in the advance on Madrid their men had encountered little difficulty in driving their foes from even their most "impregnable" defenses.

Two American and one English newspapermen, arrested by Fascists after being abandoned by their government escorts, were released today and reported sent to Salamanca.

FALL GARDEN SCHOOL WILL OPEN TODAY

proprio to this time of the year, when garden plots are laid out, flower beds are rearranged and many plants and shrubs are transplanted, replaced and set out.

The difference between an inartistic and unattractive jumble of flowers planted indiscriminately and without thought to the appearance of the grounds as a whole, and the well designed, appealing creation of gardens and flower areas in keeping with the home and surroundings will be brought out in the opening talk.

Practical Demonstration. Mrs. Crown will show in a practical way just how the best results in individual gardens may be obtained. Working toward an objective, an artistic creation on one's grounds, and fortified with the latest scientific knowledge in the care and culture of flowers, the gardener will find more pleasure and success in his work than ever before.

With this as its object, The Constitution likes to feel it is contributing materially to the appearance of the city and the pleasure of its homemakers and flower lovers.

This object is being achieved, too, according to a letter received yesterday from Mrs. David Hastings, president of the Garden Club of Georgia, who will be official hostess at today's class.

Comments Constitution.

Mrs. Hastings wrote: "The Constitution is to be commended for its manifest interest in the garden movement. The garden school is a definite step toward advancing the highest interest of home and civic betterment. The Constitution has always been a paper of service and to bring the urban beautification of the city to the people is a great need in discussing many garden problems."

"Garden lovers everywhere should take advantage of this splendid opportunity to attend this school and learn how to deal with the local problems confronting the gardener today. May the Garden Club of Georgia express its deep appreciation to The Atlanta Constitution and to Mrs. Crown for the privilege of this splendid opportunity."

Home Is Showplace.

As hostess to Atlanta men and women who will attend the garden school this morning, Mrs. Hastings is taking a place she is well qualified to fill. She is herself an enthusiastic gardener, a prominent member of the Habersham Garden Club and a former president of the organization. Her home, "Flowerland," near Lovelady, is one of the showplaces of the state and its gardens are an outstanding feature.

She has designed and planted the gardens herself and takes a great interest in their care and enlargement.

Fashion Show.

The three-day garden school has another feature that is attracting wide interest. The complete fashion show which will precede the garden classes each morning is destined to prove both entertaining and informative in latest fall and winter styles.

The large Sears stock of latest style creations for all times of the day will be the source from which the display has been chosen. Stylists at the firm have expertly selected a wide range of apparel to show 24 complete costumes each day. These will be displayed by seven charming models showing women's fashions, aided by seven-year-old twin sisters, who will demonstrate the fact that youngsters have their styles and fashions also.

The fashion parade this morning will take the form of a "past and present" display, showing styles of the past and those of the present, with a commentator explaining how the former has affected the latter and what designs of the past are considered smart again today.

Whether the individual's chief interest lies in styles and clothing or in flowers and gardens, The Constitution fall garden school is certain to prove entertaining and informative.

Personal Invitation.

Consider this your personal invitation to attend the garden school as a guest of The Constitution. There is no admission charge, nothing to buy nor any obligations of any sort. The Constitution invited you to the garden school in the interest of a more beautiful and attractive city and to ing the casting in an effort to uncover some money that can be brought back and made available for creditors and investors of the Bradley companies. Bradley has done some expert casting of his own in the past and refused to leap for the bait yesterday.

BRADLEY QUIZ FAILS TO ASSIST RECEIVERS

His manner on the stand was exemplary but little was drawn from him that could be considered a revelation in the delicate and difficult art of depriving the amateur stock market gambler of his savings, or into what channels the money was diverted after it started pouring in, week by week, in steady streams.

$55,000 Note Forgiven.

To one, on which Bradley had borrowed $55,000 from an Atlanta bank, on December 21, 1933, had been attached securities, but Bradley could not remember what securities or why he had borrowed $55,000 at one time.

"I imagine it was to get capital to work with," he suggested.

Checks totaling approximately $45,000, all signed by Bradley and all made payable personally to the manager of an Atlanta brokerage house, were shown to Bradley, but he stirred no recollections. One of the checks was for more than $15,000 and one for almost $10,000, but he failed to recall the instance of the transactions.

Personal checks issued by him and found in the company's records revealed he had bought several automobiles, but whether it was three or four, he could not remember. Payments totaling $2,000 to a local jeweler brought the statement it was not for jewelry, but perhaps, was for silver or some odds and ends. A payment of $1,000 to a local decorator "must have been for some furniture,"

Debtors Forgotten.

Several persons in Atlanta owe him money, Bradley revealed at various times during the hearing, but he could not remember who owed him or how much.

Bradley revealed he came to Atlanta in 1920 and stayed here a year, organizing the Fisheries Products Company. He returned to Atlanta in March, 1931, did some stock market trading and ultimately took over the American Bond & Share Corporation which had been organized by the late Webb Vermilya. His company was solvent when he was forced to enter a hospital for an operation in 1933, he said, but someone at his office engaged in some unauthorized trading while he was confined for several weeks and when he left the hospital his company was not solvent. He could not recall who did the unauthorized trading.

Bradley does not believe the company lost $500,000.

"I don't know just how much was lost," he said, "but it could not have reached that figure."

Admits Taking Stocks.

He admitted he took some securities with him when he disappeared from Atlanta early in 1935 and cashed them under the name of Bailey, but they were his own private property, he insisted on the stand yesterday.

He admitted he had traded under the name of "J. C. Smith" at times, but he pointed out this is a regular practice among traders who want to conceal their activities from other traders.

Phil C. McDuffie, Atlanta attorney, who is acting as counsel for Bradley, attempted unsuccessfully yesterday morning to have the hearing delayed until Bradley could be sentenced Wednesday by Judge E. Marvin Underwood, on his plea of guilty to indictments charging him with mail fraud. Attorneys for the trustee, however, insisted the hearing be conducted as scheduled.

It started at 11 a. m. and was concluded at 3:30 p. m.

WHITAKER ARRESTED, EXTRADITION SOUGHT

Whitaker yesterday, filed a complaint before United States Commissioner Carothers, in Houston, charging him with "fleeing Atlanta for the purpose of avoiding prosecution on a state kidnapping charge."

When Whitaker was taken before the commissioner for arraignment he said he hadn't realized when he took his son he was committing any crime.

"My wife and I have been separated since 1933," he said, "and the custody of our son has never been legally determined. I have had him most of the time and he has been with my wife some."

Here On Vacation.

Whitaker told the commissioner he went to Atlanta two weeks ago on his vacation and to see his son.

"Last week-end I had Frank with me. He stayed with me for several days, and then when I left Atlanta for Memphis, where I used to live, I took him back to Mrs. Whitaker."

"If he wanted to go, he wanted to stay with me, and after I left I learned he was sick."

Whitaker said he returned to Atlanta, went by Mrs. Whitaker's house and saw the child playing in the front yard with his nurse.

"He ran out to meet me, and I took him away, Whitaker said. "That's all there is to it. I want the child and I'm in a position to provide well for him. I know he will be better off with me."

Lawyer Retained.

A lawyer was retained to begin proceedings intended to entitle Whitaker to the custody of his son, he told the commissioner.

Whitaker was held in the United States marshal's office. A $5,000 bond, recommended by the United States attorney, was posted by Carothers as "exorbitant" under the circumstances of the case. It was lowered to $1,000.

When Whitaker was arrested at his office, his son was with him. Both were taken to the Department of Justice office. Later, accompanied by Deputy United States Marshal C. V. Kern, the old man took the boy to the building lobby, where he turned him over to a friend on the pretext he had to go out of town on a business trip.

SPANISH OFFICERS ASK GUARD AGAINST CREW

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Seven officers of the Spanish steamer Manuel Armas appealed to the Cuban government for protection today, charging that a sailors' Soviet council on the vessel had threatened to kill them.

The Manuel Armas is on its way to Mexico to load arms for the Spanish Lefist government. In charges filed with the Cuban maritime police, Captain Miguel Corbera Cepillo and other officers said a "revolutionary committee" of eight crew members took over control of the ship shortly after it left Barcelona.

The officers accused the crew members of insubordination and said the revolutionary committee had threatened to kill the officers unless they obeyed orders.

APPALACHIAN CLUB
HOLDS INITIAL HIKE*Forty-Five Walk Over Six Miles of Mountain Trail Area.

Forty-five members of the Georgia Appalachian Trail Club participated in the organization's first fall hike, which began over the week end from a base at Neel's Gap, in north Georgia.

The club members gathered Saturday at Neel's Gap, in Vogel state park, as guests of Mrs. M. E. Judd and Edwin H. Simms, of the park service.

The hike was held Sunday over six miles of Appalachian trail, with Sims as guide. Dr. W. B. Baker, professor of botany at Emory University, gave a lecture during the hike on "Studying Plant Life Along the Appalachian Trail."

DISABLED U. S. SHIP REACHES PORT SAFELY

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 26. (AP)—The liner American Shipper reached a safe anchorage in Dublin bay late tonight after drifting helplessly for nearly 24 hours in the gale-lashed Irish sea.

The American Merchant Line vessel, carrying 22 passengers and a cargo which included 5,000 cases of Scotch whisky, came in under its own power. It was believed the crew had been able to repair the damaged rudder which had caused the 7,430-ton ship to be threatened with destruction in immense waves and a 90-mile-an-hour gale.

Prospective Stork Derby Winner
Plans To Start Another Baby Race

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A new 10-year plan for child-bearing was announced today by Mrs. Lily Kenny, the marathon mother. It starts, she said, just as soon as she gets the half million dollars from the present 10-year stork derby which ends Saturday.

Mrs. Kenny, with nonchalant disregard for the legal tangle toward which the Millar will settlement is headed, figures to have about $100,000 of the prize money in front of Toronto mothers who didn't have a chance in the present affair. Thus she would carry on—and maybe on and on—the ideal—or perhaps the jolly jest—of Charles Vance Millar when he decided to leave a fortune to the most prolific Toronto mother.

This is item No. 2 in the list of things the French-Canadian wife of an unemployed wood carver intends to do with the prize money. Her first contemplated act will be to build a mausoleum to Millar's memory, surmounted perhaps by bassinets and babies rampant on a background of banknotes.

Mrs. Kenny herself might conceivably be a contestant in her new 10-year plan, for she wouldn't be surprised if she had another baby sometime next month. Her last cradle contribution occurred February 4. The baby, named Charles Vance Millar Kenny, died. This, as Mrs. Kenny points out, leaves Millar's name still available for use.

A number of events, however, were threatening, tonight to make a monkey wrench of themselves in the Millar marathon machinery.

1—It was stated that births may be legally registered a year after their occurrence, in which case the courts might decide to wait until October 31, 1937, before closing the books on Millar's estate.

2—Relatives of Millar living near Aylmer, Ont., which was his birthplace, hinted that they weren't going to let the Millar money be awarded as a prize for numerical motherhood without a struggle.

3—Mrs. Grace Bagnato, a strong derby contender, said she was ready to "tear the parliament building apart" if there was any attempt to challenge her claim that she has borne nine babies in the last ten years.

4—More entries appeared, none of them, however, claiming more than nine births. Mrs. Kenny claims 12.

Among the new claimants was a negro family, parents of nine babies.

Other developments included:

The baby of Mrs. Alice Timleck—her tenth—continued gravely ill in a hospital, despite a blood transfusion.

The government, which has branded the stork race a "racket," marked time, awaiting the return of the attorney general to determine what to do to stop the "revolting exhibition."

The sign "Mrs. Kenny is out of town for two weeks," still fluttered from the door of her home, with Mrs. Kenny still peeping out the window when anyone knock-knocked.

Mrs. Grace Bagnato was still "expecting" her tenth child, as she has been for several weeks. A physician who attended her in some of her previous 23 confinements, said he had not seen Mrs. Bagnato for about two months.

The three executors of the Millar will, charged with paying over the estimated $400,000 in cash to the derby winner, declined anew to make any announcement as to what their course of procedure will be after the time limit for baby-bearing ends Saturday.

—And just to show that American advertising ingenuity is not being left at the post, the Toronto papers burst forth today with huge advertisements showing the family of Mrs. A. H. Timleck and stating proudly that she "keeps 14 children healthy on a limited budget by using Blank's corn syrup regularly."

"Dead" 53 Years Ago,
Woman Succumbs at 91

MAGNOLIA, Ark., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Dennis, 91, died here yesterday—33 years after two physicians pronounced her dead and sorrowing relatives dug a grave.

Since 1883 she had personally superintended the placing of flowers on her grave each Decoration Day. It was in that year the physicians told her family that a short illness had taken her life.

She regained consciousness while the mourners gathered and, a few days later, assisted in refilling the grave. Her favorite story was how she "cheated the grave."

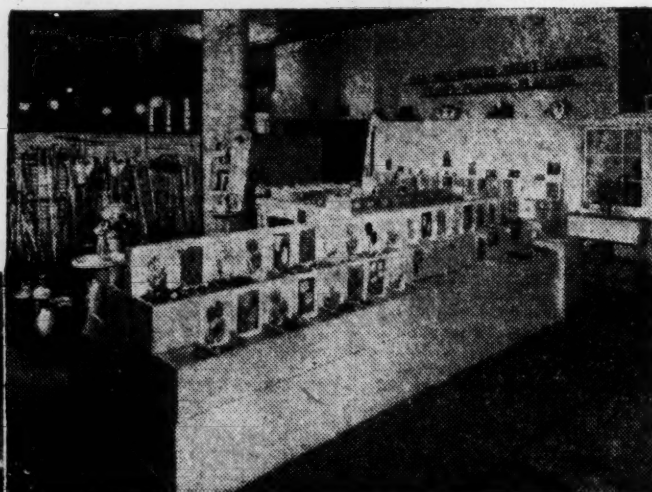

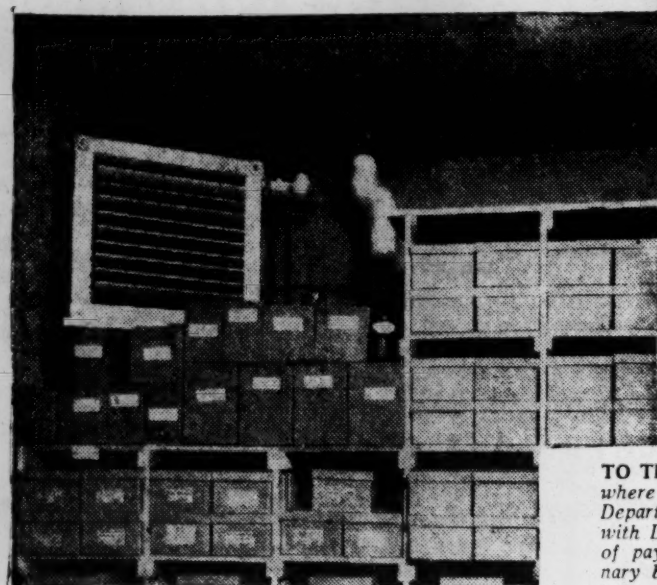

A fall three weeks ago caused her death yesterday. Friends and relatives gathered again today for her funeral.

REPUBLICAN SPENDING DOUBLES DEMOCRATS

Expenditures Over 11 Million for All Parties, a Near Record.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—As the major parties moved into the last week of the presidential campaign today, congressional records showed that together they had already spent approximately $9,016,973—more than twice the cost of the entire 1932 campaign.

Congressional attaches estimated that expenditures by minor parties, independent organizations and individual candidates already had pushed the total campaign outlay above the $11,000,000 level.

Republican disbursements—including expenditures of the national committee, senatorial committee, and congressional committee—were set at $6,480,999 in reports filed with the clerk of the house.

Spending by the corresponding Democratic agencies totaled $2,856,074.

During the entire 1932 campaign the major parties spent $4,378,000, of which $2,670,000 came out of the Republican fund and $1,708,000 from the Democrats.

Most costly campaign on record was in 1928, when the Republicans paid out $6,256,000 and the Democrats $5,342,000—a total of $11,598,000.

Both parties this year have lavished money on the radio. Broadcasting has cost the Republican national committee $224,641, while the Democratic national committee has spent $120,502 for its time on the air.

Sound trucks, newspaper and magazine advertising, billboards, pamphlets and travel for speakers have absorbed most of the remaining expenditures.

Among expense statements filed today was a report of the national Republican congressional committee, showing disbursements of $336,636 between January 1 and October 22. Its contributions during the same period were $376,235.

The American Labor party of New York, pledged to the support of President Roosevelt, listed expenditures totaling $118,061 and receipts amounting to $82,953, between July 21 and October 24. Most of its contributions came from union organizations, although 30-cent membership dues brought in $27,808.

The United Mine Workers, also supporting Mr. Roosevelt, reported a total outlay of $342,148, while contributions amounted to $12,677. Disbursements included donations of $156,250 to the Democratic national committee and $140,878 to Labor's Non-Partisan League.

Expenditure of $4,447 from August 1 to October 21 was recorded by a group of individual coal operators backing the Republican candidate. The group's receipts were $4,475.

The National Committee for Civic Recovery with headquarters at Cincinnati, Ohio, reported disbursements totaling $15,640 up to October 21, and contributions of $16,505 between August 1 and October 19.

Other Campaigns.

Prior to 1928 the most costly presidential election was the Harding-Cox contest of 1920, in which the Republicans spent $1,022,000 and the Democrats $1,500,000.

The 1924 campaign drew expenditures of $3,063,000 and $1,230,000 from the Republicans and Democrats, respectively, while La Follette's Progressive party spent $222,000.

Until 1920, no campaign equaled the record of the 1896 election, when the Republicans spent $2,500,000 to defeat William Jennings Bryan. The Democratic outlay in that year was $875,000, bringing the total to $4,375,000.

In 1916 the Democratic party reported expenditures of $1,684,000 while the Republicans paid out $2,441,000.

Other developments today on the campaign expenditures front included: The National Jeffersonian Democrats reported campaign expenditures of $66,924. Receipts of the organization from September 6 to October 22 were listed as $89,152, including $50,000 borrowed from John J. Raskob, of New York, former chairman of the Democratic national committee.

The National Union for Social Justice, headed by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, reported campaign expenditures for the year of $575,336 and receipts of $391,021 including a loan of $22,500 from the Radio League of the Little Flower at Royal Oak, Mich.

Expenditures of $6,206 were reported by the Progressive Republican Committee for Franklin D. Roosevelt. Contributions received by the organization were listed as $7,390 of which $5,000 was credited to W. Forbes Morgan, of New York.

BALANCED BUDGET SEEN BY WALLACE

Federal Spending Defended as Means To Stop Breadlines.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 26.—(AP) Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace predicted in a speech here today a sufficient national income "within a year or two" to balance the federal budget "provided the administration then in power has the courage to collect a fair share from the taxpayers according to their ability to pay."

"The federal government has gone into debt since 1933," Wallace said, "because state and local governments were without resources, because it could borrow at lower interest rates and finally because federal expenditures would mean a lighter burden on the farmer and home owner."

Comparing federal expenditures during the time of the World War to those of the present, the secretary said, "we had to spend enough to get results when foreclosures and breadlines were upon us in 1933—enough to be sure not to fail."

ROOSEVELT DEDICATES BUILDING AT HOWARD

the microphones that sent his voice through amplifiers to the crowd.

The sun was shining and a chill was in the air as Mr. Roosevelt began speaking.

The President motored out to the White House on the afternoon of the day following his speech in the White House over nine more speeches he is to make between now and the election. The next, at the observance of the 50th birthday of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor on Wednesday, like the Howard building address, today, has been described by the White House as non-political.

The latter part of the week has been set aside for campaigning in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and New York.

With agriculture as his topic, he will speak Thursday at the Pennsylvania state capital in Harrisburg. Also on Thursday's page of the date-book are informal talks, probably extemporaneous, at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Camden, N. J., and Princeton, Del.

Day at White House.

Jumping back to the capital for less than a day of White House labor between talks, he will leave again Friday afternoon for an evening address at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn. The Academy is a familiar Roosevelt rostrum, where the President has talked in several campaigns of his career.

The Democratic women leaders of the Bronx will hear the President Saturday noon, and he will make a major speech that night to an audience in New York's Madison Square Garden.

On the eve of election, the President will broadcast his final appeal for votes in a 15-minute talk Monday night. The microphone will be installed either in his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., or at Poughkeepsie, six miles away.

Mr. Roosevelt arranged only one engagement today—with three New York brokers. They were E. H. Simmons, former head of the New York Stock Exchange, E. A. Pierce and Duke Wellington.

While presidential aides said they thought the conference was another in a series of talks Mr. Roosevelt has been holding with businessmen, none of the three was willing to discuss the nature of the parley. Simmons dismissed it with a smiling assertion that it was a "social" meeting.

During the day the White House disclosed that September 17 the President had offered to the late Senator James Couzens of Michigan, the chairmanship of the new Federal Maritime Commission and that Couzens had declined he would discuss the matter with Mr. Roosevelt after the November balloting.

GARNER URGES TEXANS TO MEET PARTY QUOTA

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Vice President John N. Garner appealed to Texas Democrats today for campaign funds and a big vote to make possible as "overwhelming" Democratic victory.

In a statement, issued through state headquarters of the national campaign, he predicted President Roosevelt's re-election by a majority that "will satisfy the most enthusiastic Democrats."

"What concerns me most is what Texas will do," he said. "We must maintain our fine Democratic record. To do that, we must raise our quota of $250,000 and see to it that every loyal Democrat goes the polls and votes."

Leaders Organize Georgia Democratic Committee

Recently appointed members of the state Democratic executive committee organized and made plans to give President Roosevelt "an overwhelming vote" at a dinner last night at a downtown hotel. Shown above, left to right, are Charles S. Reid, chairman; Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, national Democratic committeewoman from Georgia, and Cam D. Dorsey, Georgia finance director for the Democratic national committee and state chairman of the national council of Roosevelt electors. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

Georgia Democrat to vote on November 3. Good luck and may God bless you all."

Howell Resolution.

Mrs. Price's resolution on Mr. Howell follows:

"Whereas, the nestor of Georgia Democracy and national committeewoman, the Honorable Clark Howell Sr., is absent from our midst tonight on account of illness; and

"Whereas, Mr. Clark Howell Sr. has been a lifelong stalwart of Georgia Democracy; and

"Whereas, he rendered conspicuous and invaluable service to Democracy in the recent campaign; and

"Whereas, all the Democrats of his state regard him with great love and affection;

"It is resolved by the Democratic executive committee of the state of Georgia, in meeting assembled, that we sorely miss this great Georgia Democrat tonight and wish for him a speedy return to health, and that he may enjoy many more years of healthful activity and service to his party."

words prompted new outbursts of applause.

Still hoarse from his cold, but speaking forcefully and loudly, Landon was cheered when he said he was going to discuss waste and "this administration's open and impudent use of public money for political purposes."

"Go after him, Alf," shouted a voice from the gallery as Landon said responsibility for the most sinister political machine of our history rested upon President Roosevelt.

"No words of idealism, no claims of good intentions, can shift the responsibility for the machine," the Kansan said. "The responsibility rests upon one man—and one man alone."

To his demand, "Who is going to put an end to this extravagance?" came in huge volume a chorus, "We are!"—phrases picked up from Landon's own lips.

"When I take office as chief executive," the Governor began at one point to list his pledges, only to be broken by more cheering.

Landon was introduced at this first of three major speeches winding up his eastern campaign, by Mr. Harvey Taylor, state Republican chairman, a man who will "give us honesty, stability, sincerity and sound common sense in government, things we are sadly lacking in today."

Landon's speech tonight in the home of the liberty bell was his third in popular Atlantic coast voting centers today. Still hoarse from a persistent cold, the candidate stood under a rain-drenched though the New Deal's "foreign pattern" was leading toward "the misery, the poverty, the hopelessness out of which dictatorships arise."

bishop, the report said, has concluded that his only possible course is to withdraw from the coronation lest his participation be interpreted by the British public as willingness to overlook the king's attitude.

York May Official.

The Archbishop of York, who is not a spiritual adviser to the royal family, presumably would be in a less difficult position as official officiant in the place of the Archbishop of Canterbury by placing the crown of England on Edward's head. But while this would make the coronation decorous and thoroughly seemly, it was conceded that substitution of York for Canterbury would be a world sensation.

Naturally, nothing will be printed in England and if the report is true it is assumed that the first official notice would be made in March when the program of the coronation is published.

Meanwhile, members of parliament were amazed at the overwhelming demand for admission to the state opening of parliament on November 3 when the uncrowned king will read the first "king's speech" of his reign.

Although according to well-established constitutional practice this speech is drafted by the head of the king's government, the prime minister, parliamentarians are wondering whether the precedent-breaking sovereign will interpolate in it a reference to his coming coronation.

Apparently there is nothing in the British constitution to prevent him from doing so, hence the enormous curiosity and eagerness to witness what might prove to be an historic occasion.

Quote U. S. Report.

The Daily Mirror tonight carried on page three a United States press report the king would marry, although it did not mention Mrs. Simpson.

The story, headlined "U. S. Report of King To Wed," was signed by "A Special Correspondent." It said:

"London was astonished yesterday by a cable report from America that one big newspaper combine announces King Edward is marrying."

"It was a sensational disclosure, the American continent from coast to coast. This report was declared to have been received from intimate friends of the king."

"Considerable indignation is expressed in London at this fantastic report. Any such story as this can only be regarded as pure conjecture. It is obvious that if there were any intimation of the approaching marriage of the king announcement would be made through the official court circular and no other way."

LAI D OFF FROM WORK BY CONSTIPATION

"For four years I suffered from constipation. I had gotten so weak I had to lay off from work. My doctor told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since then, my grocery list has never been complete without it."—Mr. A. W. Murphy, 1010 16th St., Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

This delicious cereal will give you the same, sure relief. Laboratory tests prove it's safe. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the intestines. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B which tones the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Serve as a cereal or put into appetizing recipes. Isn't this natural food better than pills and drugs?

When you're at the grocery store today, get a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Try it a week, and see if you don't feel worlds better. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MARRIAGE IS TALKED AS DIVORCE COMES UP

charging infidelity, heads a list of those set to be heard Tuesday at 2:15 p. m. (8:15 a. m. Atlanta time) by Mr. Justice Sir John Anthony Hawke, who customarily disposes of such cases in three minutes.

Mrs. Simpson's husband, former officer of the exclusive Coldstream Guards, will leave London while the case is being heard but will not go to Ipswich, friends said.

It was understood that he requested his friends to "look after Wallis" at Ipswich and shield her from any unnecessary publicity.

Those who expressed belief that the monarch might marry his admired American friend cited two reasons:

1. Continuation of self-imposed censorship by British newspapers on the divorce suit, thus enabling Mayfair gossip to enjoy full play without an authoritative restraint.

2. What is described as the bachelor monarch's "royal attitude" on the whole case which, in effect, is that his private life remains his own affair in defiance of even the highest officials of the realm so long as he performs his state duties.

Mrs. Simpson, friends said, has been greatly upset by publicity her affairs have received in the United States, and has remained in seclusion to gain composure for her brief court appearance.

The fact that Edward's high position does not permit him to make statements as an ordinary person might, does not prevent Mayfair personalities who claim royal acquaintance from discussing his most intimate affairs.

Some insist that the king is determined to marry his American friend, while others claim equally emphatically that such a possibility is fantastic.

Those who incline to the latter belief say their reason is not because such a marriage could not be contracted after Mrs. Simpson's divorce is absolute next April, but because they doubt Edward, despite his supposed affection for Mrs. Simpson, could marry any woman twice divorced and continue to hold his throne in modern England.

(Mrs. Simpson was divorced from her first husband, Lieutenant Earl Spencer, in 1927, after 11 years of marriage.)

Marry Officer's Wife.

These persons say that the fact that Mrs. Simpson would be the divorced wife of a former officer of one of the king's own historic regiments would make such a marriage even more unacceptable to the British public.

Simpson himself continues to decline

WINTER DESCENDS UPON NORTHWEST

Weather 8 Degrees Below Zero Grips Area; Chicago Has Flurry.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 26.—(AP)—King Winter stepped experimentally upon his throne today and blew a chilly breath over the northwest, driving the mercury to as low as eight degrees below zero in some places. He was due for a setback, however, as forecasters read signs of warmer weather tomorrow.

Warroad, on Minnesota's northern border, had the most severe cold, but temperatures readings of zero were recorded at two north Dakota points and near zero cold was felt in South Dakota and Nebraska.

At Little Falls, 100 miles north of St. Paul, the Mississippi river froze over, ending the shortest open channel period since 1880. The river was open only 196 days.

Light snow, sleet and rain fell over most of Iowa last night, but the lowest temperature reported was 20 above at Mason City. South Dakota had its coldest weather since the record cold wave of last March. The mercury stood at five above in Watertown and Aberdeen.

NEW ENGLAND GETS BELOW-FREEZING WEATHER

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Temperatures slid six to eight degrees below freezing over a wide section of northern New England tonight as snow was seen in scattered northern points.

Tonight the coldest spot in the six states was atop Mt. Washington in New Hampshire, where an 80-mile-an-hour wind helped send the thermometer down to two degrees above zero.

At Eastport, Maine, northernmost tip of the New England coastline, the weather bureau reported snow was falling at 8 p. m. Snow also sifted down over Dartmouth's football squad practicing at Hanover, N. H.

'MARTIN PEACE' FINDS IDENTITY AS TEXAN

intending to return in a short while.

After a week's search in the capital, Mrs. Saunders became prostrated and her husband was forced to abandon the search and take her to their home near Fort Worth. Another son was left at the university to direct the search from there.

Dwight's parents had expressed the fear their son might have been the victim of kidnapers or of persons opposed to his labor views. The youth was known as extremely liberal in views.

Dwight's father left Fort Worth last night for Atlanta to escort his son home. He and Mrs. Saunders were overjoyed at the news that their son had been found in Atlanta.

Here, young Saunders, when informed he had been identified, expressed relief, but declared the name of Saunders meant nothing to him. He viewed the picture of his mother in the Star-Telegram and admitted she bore him a close resemblance. He said, however, that he still could not recall anything of his family, his home or his school activities.

When told his disappearance had prostrated his mother, he expressed a desire to get to her side as quickly as possible.

RAILROAD MAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY ENGINE

Struck by a switch engine at the Howell yard of the Seaboard Air Line railway, Charles F. Morris, 47, of 1882 Howell Mill road, veteran switchman, died shortly after being admitted to St. Joseph's infirmary last night.

Details of the accident were not learned, but it was said Morris was working near a roundhouse when he was struck. He had been an employee of the railroad for more than 20 years.

Surviving are his wife; three brothers, R. A., G. B. and J. C. Morris, and two sisters, the Misses Mary and Essie Morris. Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon Company.

REPUBLICAN'S SON DIES

DANIA, Fla., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Lester E. Swanson, 37, son of Thomas E. Swanson, Republican candidate for congress from the fourth district, died today in his home following a long illness.

Swanson, a native of Denver, Colo., who came here nine years ago, is survived by the widow, Ann, and his parents. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday, with burial in Fort Lauderdale.

Emory Psychologist Probes Mind Of Youthful Victim of Amnesia

Strange Mental Interlude of
'Martin Peace' Reveals Keen Brain.

With deft questions, Herman W. Martin, professor of psychology at Emory University yesterday, probed the mind of the man who called himself "Martin Peace" because he didn't know who he is. He later was identified as Dwight Saunders, of Fort Worth, Texas.

The nationally noted psychologist, at the instigation of T. K. Jones, police reporter of The Constitution, postponed an appointment in order to meet the youth and then questioned him for two hours.

"Peace," who wandered into police headquarters here Sunday night, outlined to Dr. Martin his travels since he came to the sudden realization that he was walking on a Texas street without knowing where he was going or whence he had come.

Dr. Martin praised "Peace's" procedure in traveling about attempting to establish his identity, and said that sooner or later he would regain his memory.

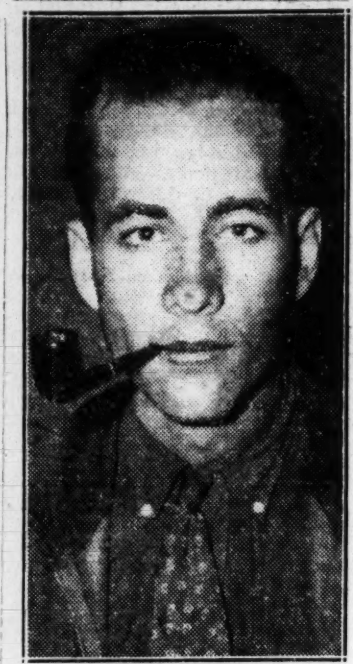

All Have It to a Degree.

Every person suffers in some small degree from amnesia, said Dr. Martin. He cited as an instance the case in which a person well acquainted with another is unable to recall that person's name.

"One may try for several days to recall a forgotten name and then, like a flash, the name is recalled. The lapse of memory in mild cases of amnesia," Dr. Martin said.

In many instances of amnesia, Dr. Martin declared, impersonal things are retained in the memory, but personal facts are completely forgotten. Amnesia is often caused by mental shock, he said.

The youth's conversation with Dr. Martin revealed he has apparently been an excellent student of psychology and economics. Asked if he could name the major presidential candidates, he named them.

Probably Catholic.

He has a keen understanding of both the Catholic and Protestant religions and appears equally conversant on either. However, he had in his possession a rosary, which indicated he was a member of the Catholic faith.

Detectives Lewis Whitley and W. W. Ford yesterday raised a collection at police headquarters and declared they would ask the members of all watches to contribute.

"Peace" they had said, would be granted the use of a bank at police headquarters and permitted to come and go at will until the arrival of his father, James E. Saunders, of Fort Worth, to return him to his home.

Watkins Launches Active Campaign To Ban Children From Tap Rooms

Orders to take action immediately in cases in which children are working in places selling beer and wine were issued yesterday by Judge Garland M. Watkins of Fulton juvenile court, to his staff of a dozen field workers.

The judge instructed his staff investigators to prepare a list of children under 16 who are employed in tap rooms and taverns and said that the parents of the minors will be notified to stop their children from work.

In line with his campaign to prevent the sale of intoxicating drinks to minors, Judge Watkins announced his staff will investigate each case coming into his court with the view of prosecuting every beer and wine dealer who has sold drinks to young boys and girls.

Possible Punishment.

Sale of intoxicating drinks to children is "contributing to the delinquency of a minor" and is a misdemeanor offense punishable by a maximum fine of $1,000, a year on the chain gang and six months in jail.

Judge Watkins yesterday ordered his investigators to cover the entire city and county to discover all children working in places selling beer and wine. He said the parents will first be told to remove their child from the evil influence of the tap rooms and taverns or face punishment from his court, which has jurisdiction over the welfare of all children under 16.

"The children may find other employment which will not subject them to the influences of a tap room," the judge said. He termed the surroundings of beer and wine places "an improper environment for minors."

Brought Into Court.

Several establishments which have sold intoxicating drinks to children, who have as a result, been brought into the juvenile court, already are being investigated by Judge Watkins' staff.

A number of Atlanta ministers heartily endorsed Judge Watkins' announcement of last week that he will conduct an active campaign against the sale of intoxicants to children.

They based sermons Sunday on the duty of the church to protect children and commended Judge Watkins' stand.

Must Protect Children.

"There is no reason why we can't protect our children," Judge Watkins said yesterday.

"The sale of drinks anywhere to children can be stopped and it has got to be done."

Without attempting to usurp the power of the law enforcement agencies, I am going to do everything I can to put an end to it right now."

The judge asked the co-operation of all parents to help in the campaign, not only in the case of their own children but for the benefit of all minors.

"Much of the delinquency of children nowadays is the neglect of their parents," he said. "Parents must be made to realize their duty to do it. They must discipline children. The juvenile court and all the law enforcement agencies in the world cannot do for the parents that which should be done at home."

"Deplorable Situation."

"But we must take steps immediately to protect all boys and girls as much as we can. The situation is deplorable when high school students get drunk on intoxicating beverages which they can buy anywhere."

"In dozens of cases brought before me, the reports read 'this child has been loitering in such and such a beer and wine saloon' and then follows the charge that the child has committed some offense no parents ever want their child to commit. But such cases are increasing every day," he asserted.

His staff workers will swear out accusations against every beer and wine dealer who is caught selling drinks to children and will prosecute them to the fullest extent in the Fulton criminal court, the judge said.

DISPUTE ON BOND CASH WILL BE AIRED TODAY

Committee Would Avert
Threatened Delay on Disposal Plant Project.

Amicable adjustment of the bond commission-administration controversy over diversion of $92,100 sewer bond premiums to the city treasury will be sought at the finance committee meeting this afternoon in order to avert delay in construction of the R. M. Clayton disposal plant, one of the major undertakings of the $88,000,000 sewer modernization program.

Assistant Chief of Construction William A. Hansell, in charge of sewer work, yesterday conferred with Mayor Key and Councilman Aubrey Milam, finance committee chairman, with a view of reaching some agreement which would obviate the threatened delay.

Bond commission members have notified city council officials that the commission is unable to recommend award of a contract for a major portion of the Clayton work because of lack of $78,000, needed as the city's share of the expense.

The Clayton plant will be done by contract under the co-operation of PWA and the municipality, as several of the disposal units are to be constructed.

Delay Threatened.

Hansell is prepared to tell the finance committee this afternoon that diversion of the bond premiums threatens to hamper seriously the Clayton work and that some settlement of the premium issue should be made immediately.

Milam yesterday asserted he is concerned seriously over the matter and said he would do everything possible to prevent crippling the sewer program.

"We must allow nothing to stand in the way of the sewer development," Milam said. "I don't know what we can do, but I will be willing to stretch a point a long way to avoid a delay in the sewer program. The Clayton plant and others are important cogs in the sewer modernization program and must be constructed. We shall attempt to devise some means of handling the difficulty."

Another Project Begun.

Hansell pointed out the federal government yesterday morning began work on the important Nancy creek project, and that several miles of large trunk line pipe are to be laid. Laying of large trunk lines on Peachtree creek is being pushed and the Clayton plant will be the focal point of all these lines.

It is at the Clayton plant that sewage from these lines, which traverse the entire northern and eastern drainage areas, will be disposed, and if the Clayton plant should not be built several hundreds of thousands of dollars could be spent vainly in laying the important trunk lines and their connecting links.

Hansell asserted that his conference with Mayor Key had been "entirely satisfactory."

"The mayor is in entire sympathy with our problem and will co-operate as fully and as far as is possible," Hansell said.

"We must not allow anything to stand in the way of completion of this sewer program," he added. "I shall confer tomorrow morning with PWA engineers and directors with a view of obtaining the smallest figure possible and then I shall ask the finance committee to do its utmost to see the sum is provided immediately. The sewer program is the most important public works being prosecuted in or near Atlanta and it must not stop or be embarrassed."

WORLD TOTAL OF JEWS
PLACED AT 16,300,000

BERLIN (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—World Jewish population, having multiplied itself six times in the last 135 years, has been set at 16,300,000.

Authority for the figure was Dr.

Erwin Rawicz, noted Jewish statistician.

Jewish population was divided into three principal regions. Approximately 7,500,000 reside in eastern Europe, including Poland, Russia, Rumania and the Baltic states.

The United States held second place with 4,500,000 Jewish residents, Rawicz's recapitulation asserted, while Mediterranean states were third with approximately 1,333,000.

The Jewish population of Germany was given as 400,000 compared with an estimated total of 550,000 at the time of Adolf Hitler's rise to power and beginning of Nazi anti-Jewish measures.

By continents, Dr. Rawicz's survey showed 9,736,000 in Europe; 3,601,000 in Africa; 938,000 in Asia; 5,031,000 in North and South America; and 27,900 in Australia and New Zealand.

COUZENS' FUNERALHenry Ford Is Among Late
bearers.

DETROIT, Oct. 26.—(P)—The body of James Couzens was borne to the grave today by Henry Ford and others who were associated with the late senator in business, philanthropic and political activities.

The heavy casket was taken from the flower-banked rooms of the Couzens' home in Bloomfield Hills after funeral services conducted by the Rev. S. S. Marquis, rector of Christ Church, Cranbrook.

A funeral procession containing in addition to members of the senator's family, committees from the United States senate and house of representatives, and a personal representative of President Roosevelt, escorted the body to its resting place in Woodlawn cemetery.

City and county offices were closed today, and Detroit street cars and buses halted for one minute at 2 p. m. in memory of the man who as Detroit mayor in 1922 founded the municipal railway system.

Senator Couzens died Thursday in a Detroit hospital after an operation.

Alano Dass Struggles To Answer
Thousands of Questions Received

Alano Dass is swamped under the thousands of letters, each containing a question, that have been sent to him through The Constitution. "I'm a psycho-mentalist who is appearing twice daily this week at the Rialto theater, is devoting every minute of his spare time, and staying in late every night, trying to answer every letter received," he says. "He is going to do just that. He asks that all who have written him have patience and, if they don't see the answer to their question in these columns, they will get it through the mail in a few days."

After today's list, there will be only one more list of Dass' questions and answers published here. And all questions, to be answered even by mail, must be postmarked not later than midnight tomorrow. For there is a limit as to how many questions can be answered until he was an old man.

He believes he can answer more quickly through the mail than by preparing his answers for this column.

Many True Replies.

Many who have sent in their questions and have been answered have already found his replies to be true and they write expressing their deep appreciation. So, if you have a question you want answered, other than those Mr. Dass can answer from the stage of the Rialto, mail it in before tomorrow midnight.

On question only should be asked in a letter. With it you must give your correct, full name and address, together with your birthdate. Otherwise, Mr. Dass cannot answer. Enclose a stamped, addressed envelope and mail to Alano Dass, care of The Constitution.

Mr. Dass, of course, replies to each one personally. He states that he is able to make so many surprising and correct answers through development to a high degree of the power of mental telepathy, thoroughly disclaiming any supernatural powers. In any event, it is he who answers and The Constitution, of course, has no responsibility in the matter.

Today's List.

Today's list of questions and answers follows:

Q. B.—When am I going to be promoted? Will I have to stay here very much longer? A.—It appears to me that a change is in store for you very soon. The company you are employed by has great confidence in your ability. You will be transferred about the first of the year, and at that time you will also be promoted to a higher position. You will then be filling the place you have been desirous of filling for a long time.

Q. F.—Is the boy who works for the telephone company kidding my sister along or is he serious? A.—In my opinion your sister is kidding the boy. He is serious.

Q. J. E.—What requirements are necessary for two individuals to be happily married and to keep ideal love existing? A.—In my opinion the ideal human love is that in which the various elements are nicely balanced in harmonious relation. For a successful mating and union, all the requirements of the individual—physical, mental, and emotional must be met; and on as many planes as possible. The various elements must be harmonious and well balanced in the normal phase of sex, a mental and physically matured man and woman must not forget to carry out their original ideals. In marriage temperament, character, education, environment, habit, custom and rank are all to be considered.

Q. J. Y.—Will the oil prices I recently acquired in Texas produce oil, and if so, in large quantities? A.—Yes, but in my opinion you will be cheated out of your profit through clever manipulations.

Q. W. T.—Would I be successful this coming year if I borrowed money to finance a patent? A.—I feel that it would not be wise for you to borrow the money at all. If you wait until the latter part of 1937 you will have enough money, without borrowing, to carry on with your plans.

Q. R. I. H.—I am working at a ten-cent store and I am not at all happy. If I follow the advice of a certain friend and accept his offer, would I be happy and contented? A.—By all means follow the advice of your friend. I feel that you would be very happy in doing so. He may not be a movie type but he is one of the best men you have ever met. A home of your own and a devoted husband will give you some real interest in life. Go to it.

Q. C. B. C.—Mr. Dass, I have been reading the many and varied answers you have been giving to questions in your column, and I was just wondering if you could tell me how many hairs I have in my head? A.—Another question not worthy of an answer but just to let you know that I know, you have 18,000 hairs in your head. Now, if you don't believe me I suggest that just before you go to bed tonight you count them.

Q. W. I. P.—I am 35 years of age. Can you tell me what cycle of life I am now in? A.—You are in the fifth cycle of life. This cycle begins at the age of 29 and continues to the age of 34. This cycle, we call "the cycle of changes and new opportunities."

Q. R. T.—I have been married over five years and have not had any children. For the past three years I have wanted so much to have a child but for some unknown reason, my wish has not been granted. Can you tell me what the difficulty is? A.—I can only suggest that you consult a physician.

Y. S.—Should I mail the letter that I wrote to a certain party last night? A.—I believe you wrote that letter when you weren't in a very pleasant state of mind. I suggest that you wait until you are calm and collected and then rewrite the letter before mailing.

Q. M.—Where was my husband last Saturday night and did he tell me the truth about what happened? A.—Attend my special matinee for ladies only at the Rialto theater Friday morning at 10 o'clock and I'll give you the answer.

Q. C. H.—Will I do much better in my life? A.—I can see that you are interested in sales work. You will have position with-

FOUR EDITORS OPPOSE
TAX LIMITATION PLANMizell Urges Adoption of Amendment, as Newspapers Ask Its Defeat.

Four Georgia editors yesterday urged defeat of the 15-mill tax limitation proposed amendment, while H. C. Mizell, of Atlanta, called for its passage.

The editors were E. R. Jerger, of the Thomasville Times Enterprise; Lovelace Eve, of the Americus Tri-County News; Ben A. Neal, of the Millen News; and Jere N. Moore, of the Milledgeville Union Recorder.

They followed Editors Rush Burton, of the Lavonia Times, and Henry W. Nevil, of the Dalton Citizen, in condemning the amendment.

Joining with its affiliate, the Georgia Federation of Labor, the Chauffeurs, Teamsters and Helpers of Atlanta, local union No. 450, yesterday announced adoption of a resolution calling for "our friends and the people of Georgia to vote against the 15-mill tax limitation," saying it will mean an unbridled sales tax.

Mizell said he was supporting the amendment because "I am tired of seeing Georgia at the bottom of the list in education and in home-owning and I believe our tax system to be partly responsible for our poor standing."

"The proposed amendment will fix as an upper limit the present average tax on real estate in Georgia, will prevent additional exploitation in this particular tax field, will permit those who hope to build homes or own other real estate to know the worst penalties that can be placed upon them as owners," Mizell asserted.

Editor Eve predicted a sales tax will develop to replace the revenue which would be lost under the amendment and stated "a sales tax can easily bear heaviest on those least able to pay it," while Editor Neal characterized the amendment as a "clever trick to catch the unsuspecting with the popular bait of 'reduced taxation' while the amendment and its sponsors really indicate its major purpose is to protect the large property owner at the expense of those of small means."

"To approve this amendment means only one thing and that is big out-of-state corporations will be relieved of taxes," Editor Moore stated. "It is vaguely worded and if adopted the result will be disastrous to the schools of the cities and counties of this state."

A Halloween carnival will be sponsored at the Commercial High school Friday night by the Parent-Teacher Association to raise money with which to pay for the school piano.

Featured at the carnival will be "The Gypsy Tea Kettle," a real tea room serving tea and cookies, it was announced. All the various school activities will conduct booths and side-shows.

Appear Before Committee
as Term Nears End

Final presentments of the September-October grand jury will be considered today at the grand jury routine meeting.

Several department heads were interviewed yesterday by a committee on county affairs which is to make its report this morning. A committee to prepare the final recommendations has been working on the presentments for several days, getting them ready for presentation to the Fulton superior court at the end of the jury term Friday.

Stanley is foreman.

The jury also has before it several bills of indictment against George Harsh and Mark (Chicken) Chastain, in connection with their "joyride" from Bellwood camp which resulted in a probe of special privileges allowed rich convicts in the prison camps of Fulton county. "Startling facts" were uncovered, it was said.

F.D.R. COMMENDS NAVY AS PEACE INSTRUMENT

President Congratulates Service on Its 'Splendid Efficiency.'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(P)—Emphasizing America's determination to avoid war, President Roosevelt tonight wrote Secretary Swanson that an efficient navy, "adequate in men and material, is entirely compatible with the good neighbor policy enunciated by this administration." In a navy day letter, President Roosevelt, congratulating the navy "on its splendid efficiency," said: "I desire to emphasize the fact that an adequate defensive force is, at the same time, an instrument of peace and good will. We have no imperial designs. We are actuated by a stern determination to avoid armed conflict by every honorable means." The service's annual "at home" day for the public will be celebrated throughout the country tomorrow, coinciding with the birthday anniversary of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

The President's letter to Swanson follows: "It gives me peculiar pleasure again to commend to the service and to all of our countrymen the annual observance of Navy Day, which in accordance with custom will be celebrated on October 27, Theodore Roosevelt's birthday. The yearly recurrence of Navy Day is to me personally a happy reminder of my delightful association with the naval service. Although happily we are on terms of peace and amity with all nations, we cannot close our eyes to the fact that in many parts of the world conditions are disquieting and signs are portentous. An efficient navy, adequate in men and material, is entirely compatible with the good neighbor policy enunciated by this administration as the keystone of its foreign relations. We rejoice that we are at peace with all mankind."

In congratulating the navy on its splendid efficiency I desire to emphasize the fact that an adequate defensive force is, at the same time, an instrument of peace and good will. We, as a people, seek no conquest. We are actuated by a stern determination to avoid conflict by every honorable means. I salute the American navy and believe the American people share a common pride in its purpose and its traditions. In a message broadcast to all American naval vessels and shore stations, Swanson said it was "gratifying that recent legislation assures us a navy that by 1942 will have attained present treaty limits."

Atlanta to Honor Men of U. S. Navy Today

Though they be far at sea, the airmen, shipmen and submarine men of the United States navy will receive praise of Atlantans today as Navy Day is observed throughout the land. In Atlanta, Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, known as the "flying admiral," will inspect the local reserve units. Shown above in the foreground are some of the war-birds and eyes of the navy on the deck of one of Uncle Sam's great airplane carriers. In the background are two giant sister ships, each carrying scores of air fighters.

Atlanta Naval Units Join Nation Today in Celebration of Navy Day

Atlanta's naval reserve unit and to the Naval League; Captain Reed M. Fawell, commandant of the Tech Naval R. O. T. C., and Lieutenant Harry F. Dobbs, commander of the local naval reserve battalion.

Today the navy passes in review and the nation comes from under a cloak of forgetfulness to salute and cheer the boys in blue who patrol and protect the coast lines of a nation. Today—in Atlanta and throughout the country—is the navy's lining.

TROTSKY SUIT ALLOWED. OSLO, Norway, Oct. 26.—(P)—The conciliation board today admitted the libel suit of Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian Bolshevik leader, against the newspaper Arbeideren, Norway's principal Communist organ. Trotsky last Saturday said the suit was based on a dispatch from Moscow which accused Trotsky of co-operating with the German secret police.

Sunday afternoon, with an open house at the naval armory, Atlanta began ceremonies honoring the navy. Today, at inspections, dinners, luncheons and social events, she will continue this tribute which is featured here by the visit from Admiral Reeves.

Upon his arrival this morning, Admiral Reeves will exchange informal calls with Major General George Van Horn Moseley, ranking army officer in this area. Then he will go to Georgia Tech, where he will be met by President M. L. Brittain, and together they will proceed to the naval armory to inspect the Tech naval R. O. T. C. unit.

Speaker at Luncheon. At 12:30 o'clock the admiral will be guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club and during the remainder of the afternoon he will be honored at numerous social events. At 6:15 o'clock Admiral Reeves will inspect the local naval reserve unit at the armory.

The principal event of the evening is a Navy Day banquet to be given at the Athletic Club and to be attended by civic leaders and members of the naval and military contingents. Navy Day celebrations in the city will be brought to a close at 10:30 o'clock, with a radio address by the admiral.

Admiral H. V. Butler, new commander of the sixth, seventh and eighth naval districts with headquarters in Charleston, originally was scheduled to pay his first official visit to the Atlanta units tomorrow but this visit has been delayed until next Monday, it was announced yesterday. Atlanta boasts two of the best units of "dry land" sailors in the nation. Year after year they have consistently won honor after honor and no summer cruise is complete without the boys from Atlanta capturing some new prize.

Established in 1922. The local naval reserve unit was established in 1922 and since that time has shown continuous growth until today there are 160 men and 15 officers in the battalion. Located permanently here are the first and second fleet divisions and the headquarters division. Drills are held at the armory each Tuesday night and each summer the "dry land sailors" go to sea for 15 days to test their "sea legs."

As for records, the local unit holds one that has never been approached by any other unit of the nation. In the past seven years of competition, it has won four first places; two thirds, and one second. Its closest rival has won only two first places.

The naval armory has been equipped at a cost of approximately $100,000 and inside the building are a complete destroyer bridge, a fully equipped engineer's plant, oil fire boiler, turbine and electric and signal departments.

Tech's R. O. T. C. Tech's naval R. O. T. C. unit was established 10 years ago and its enrollment fixed by the navy department. At present 220 boys are being carried by the unit. Graduates are commissioned as ensigns at the naval reserve or as second lieutenants in the marine reserve, as they desire.

Commanding Atlanta's fleet are Lieutenant Commander Jesse Draper, U. S. N. R., Georgia representative

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts lifeless. To end Piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription the HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for hundreds of patients with a marvelous record of success and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs Drug Stores say "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe, clean way to get rid of your Pile misery or money back."—(adv.)

F. D. R.'S FARM POLICY DEFENDED BY TOLLEY

AAA Official Says G. O. P. Proposals Would "Invite Price Decline."

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(P)—H. R. Tolley, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, declared today the administration's farm program had aided both business and agriculture.

In what he termed the first "political" address of the campaign, given over the midwestern radio hook, he contended Republican farm proposals would "invite a drastic price decline."

"To my mind," he said, "President Roosevelt's remarkable grasp of farm problems is reason enough why farmers should want to keep him in the White House. A second reason is his vigorous and continuing effort to help farmers meet these problems."

"You farmers know that the President's program has been effective. You know it has increased your incomes, and that your larger buying power has helped business and employment," he added.

"Republican leaders have made it clear that if they are successful there will be little room in their administration for men of the caliber of Secretary Wallace. There will be little room for a broad-gauge program based on a realistic understanding of conditions confronting farmers."

"To men like Landon, Hoover, Hamilton and Knox, the very thought of any kind of planning... is unjustifiable interference with rugged individualism. They would abolish the Triple A program. They would go back to a trade and tariff policy which is utterly at odds with the facts of world conditions. They would go back to a gold policy which has been discarded by every country in the world."

"They would use straight subsidies to stimulate unlimited production of export commodities, for which they admit there is now no adequate foreign market. Such a policy would directly invited a drastic price decline."

DROP TO 48 DEGREES PREDICTED FOR TODAY

A drop to 48-degree temperatures was scheduled for Atlanta this morning, with the mercury, if it lives up to forecasts, climbing no higher than 60 degrees during the day.

Partly cloudy skies will continue throughout the day, according to the weather prophets, who blame it all on the cold weather that is driving down from the northwest.

"Mercury dropped well below freezing points in some sections of the northwest," said George B. Minding, chief forecaster. "Chicago had snow during the morning. A high barometer in this area is warding off very cold weather."

Atlanta's temperatures yesterday ranged between 37 in the morning and 77 during the afternoon. At 8 o'clock last night the thermometers were registering 64.

INSTALLMENT I.

A silver-winged bird circled high in the blue summer day which lay upon southern California, high over the brown velvet hills—so high that it seemed no bigger than a flashing sea gull.

It spiraled downward in great loops; grew larger; a faint mutter reached the hills from it, like the beating of wings.

Lower it came—but still so high that it was more of a flash than an object. Circling.

And now the sound grew plainer. Not the steady beat of flying wings, but a broken, interrupted pulsation as of a man's heart fighting for life, or of wings beating frantically against a cage.

For a little space this continued. Then a tense, menacing silence. The silver bird still circled downward. A hundred yards away stood a long row of eucalyptus trees, which were soldiers marching; beyond them a sweet rise of green land on which stood a far spreading white house with arches marching along the front, and red tiles on sloping roofs, and crimson bougainvillea splashed like blood against the pale walls.

Still the derisive whistling proceeded.

He bent over and looked downward. Nobody there. Nothing but a golden ground splattered by violet shadows. A hundred yards away stood a long row of eucalyptus trees, which were soldiers marching; beyond them a sweet rise of green land on which stood a far spreading white house with arches marching along the front, and red tiles on sloping roofs, and crimson bougainvillea splashed like blood against the pale walls.

Still the derisive whistling proceeded.

He twisted around in the fork of the tree, to see behind him, and grunted.

"So you're the bright lad, are you?" he said. "I suppose you think you're funny. Well, sign off and go on being the man with the hoe. Wherefore the person to whom he addressed his indignant speech seemed unduly tiny. But manifestly the broadcaster of the derisive melody was a kid in faded blue trousers, khaki shirt, a blue bandana handkerchief about his neck, and a battered, broad-brimmed straw hat low on his head. He leaned upon his hoe, but his gaze was not upon the ground. His head was thrown back, revealing a tanned, oval face, two lips still puckered in the production of melody, two eyes squinting upward, and a fringe of curling black hair.

Thus rudely addressed, the kid ceased his tune, leaned heavily upon his hoe, cocked his head a little more indignantly upward, and a fringe of curling black hair.

"You look sorta ridiculous," he asserted slowly, judiciously. "Yeah; that's the word." The voice was smooth and throaty, a singing voice one would have said—except that its owner seemed to prefer to whistle.

"You're an impertinent brat," announced the man in the tree. "That's the word, too. I might add that you are impudent, rude, uncivil, saucy, unmannerly, disrespectful, and violating the rules of good breeding."

The blue and khaki figure scratched its nose.

"Oh, now I know who you are," he said brightly. "You're Mr. The-saurus. I've got one of your books." Again the lips puckered and the derisive melody warbled forth. The man in the tree straightened up, inched forward along a limb, his eye dangerous.

"Do you always get down from your plane this way?" The whistling stopped to make room for the question.

"Only," replied the man in the tree, "when I am in a hurry to chastise an impertinent young imp."

"Oh, you mean me?" asked the kid, pointing at himself. "You're going to chastise me? Is that it? 'Cause I whistled a tune for you?"

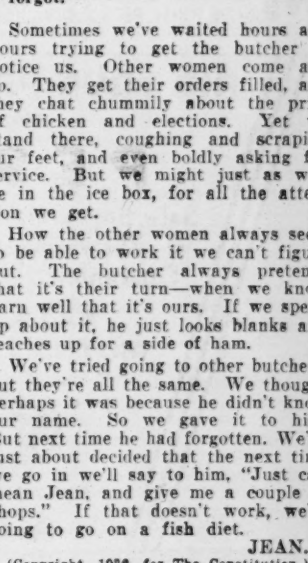

"You," asserted the man. "Absolutely. I'm going to chastise you precisely where you will get the most good." He inched along the tree limb. "With my hand," he added, malevolently. "Just like mother used to make."

"Dare you?" said the kid.

With surprising swiftness the aviator now seized the rope toward which he had been inching—one of the 'chute ropes which was firmly entwined about a strong branch, and which swept toward the ground. He clutched the rope, kicked off from the limb on which he stood, and the rope swished through his gripped hands as he flashed downward, laughing.

"Oh-h!"

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

OLD HARVEST CUSTOMS.

In some villages and small cities of Hungary, there is a spirit of joy and feasting at harvest time. Farmers and farm workers dress in gay-colored costumes, and parade through the streets. High above them they carry what is known as "the wheat crown," part of their harvest, and they take it to the mayor of the village or city.

In many other places the last sheaf is called "the Old Man," a contest of farm workers is held as the last field of grain is cut down. Each person hurries to finish cutting as fast as he can, so that he will not be "last." The one who works most slowly, and cuts the last sheaf, is greeted with laughter and jokes are made about him because he is so slow.

In the region around Danzig, a city on the gulf of the Baltic sea, a group of women will set to work on the last patch of grain while men persons stand about watching. The woman who cuts the last sheaf has to carry it to the owner, saying, "Here I bring you the Old Man!"

"The Old Man" is given a seat, and is served with food. Since he cannot eat, the woman who carried him from the field is allowed to have his portion, as well as her own. Probably she feels like a person who wins the "booby prize" at a card party.

After the feast comes dancing, and the Old Man is used as a dancing partner by several women, one after another, and the rest of the people form a circle to watch.

PARKING METERS USED

BY 2,735 IN MACON

MACON, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A count of parking meter nickles from three Macon business blocks showed today 2,735 persons had used the newly installed devices the last three days of the past week.

A total of $136.75 was deposited in the 184 meters, Mayor Herbert Smart said. Of this the city received 20 per cent, the balance going on deposit to pay for the meters if they are retained.

The meters are under a 120-day experimental installation.

TAX ISSUE REVERSAL

CHARGED TO COLLINS

Judge Morris Compares Superintendent's Statements With Report.

MARIETTA, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Judge Newt Morris, of Marietta, contended today that Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, had reversed himself in saying that tax limitation would hurt the schools.

Judge Morris, who served for 16 years as president of the Marietta board of education until he resigned last August, said in a statement: "It is interesting to compare Dr. Collins' present statements opposing tax limitation with his written reports as state superintendent of schools."

Judge Morris said this report, among other things, contained this statement: "The state through its constitution assumes responsibility for a system of public schools but pays approximately one-third of the cost of the educational budget. Both for the sake of equalizing the burden and for the sake of providing enough income for the schools, something must be done to shift the burden of support of public education from the overburdened local unit, whose only source of income is the outmoded general property tax. We can accomplish little of permanent value until the schools are backed by a more adequate and more reliable source of revenue."

Collins' statement, as quoted by Judge Morris, previously pointed out that there are 6,789 school districts in the state with a result of "lack of unity, lost motion, imperfect records and waste of funds."

In commenting on what he called Dr. Collins' "reversal of position," Judge Morris said:

"We do not believe Dr. Collins is so foolish as to believe that the legislature will not make adequate provision for the common schools of Georgia."

Judge Morris, who served seven years in the state legislature and was speaker in the house from 1902-04, said the governor-nominee of Georgia is the strongest friend of the common schools that has been chosen as governor of this state."

In concluding, Judge Morris said: "Remember this about tax limitation. State and county taxes for 1936 will be paid on present rates. These funds will be available for the operation of all units of government until the legislature has ample time to make provision for the support of necessary functions of government."

HAUPTMANN'S WIDOW WINS COURT VICTORY

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A civil action brought by an attorney against Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann was dismissed in municipal court today for lack of evidence after Mrs. Hauptmann spent 15 minutes on the witness stand.

Frank R. Mesek, the lawyer, charged that he had settled a $12,000 government tax lien on Mrs. Hauptmann's property for $2,100 and was to have received $950 for the service.

He asserted he had received only $650.

Appearing pale and worn, Mrs. Hauptmann denied knowledge on the stand of details of the suit and Judge William Lyman declared the case dismissed for lack of evidence.

6 GEORGIANS DIE IN AUTO CRASHES

More Than 20 Injured Over Week End, Including Bride.

By The Associated Press.

Reports yesterday showed at least six Georgians died in week-end automobile accidents. More than 20 were hurt, some so seriously they may not recover.

The victims were listed as: Munroe Swyer, 21, of Dexter, killed Sunday night when his car struck a parked automobile near Cochran. Two other men were hurt.

Freeman Brantley, 17, of Wrightsville, injured fatally in the collision of two cars near Dublin. Two other motor cars later crashed into the wreckage. One young woman was injured critically, several suffered less severe hurts.

Cliff Snider, 41, American mechanic, killed in a collision between his passenger car and a CCC truck, near Americus. Snider's bride of a few months suffered critical injuries. Several others also were hurt.

Keith Roberts, 8, of Fitzgerald, was killed when a motor car overturned. Nine others were hurt, including the boy's parents.

A negro fell to his death from a truck near Americus.

An unidentified man stepped into a traffic lane in Atlanta from behind parked cars. He was killed.

PINE PRODUCTS FIRM TO ERECT BIG PLANT

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The industrial committee of Savannah announced completion of arrangements for the Resin Products Company, a Delaware corporation, to erect a $100,000 plant for extraction of fatty substances from pine.

The chemical company will utilize the "black liquor" of the Union Bag and Paper Corporation, a company which recently began making paper from pine.

The product of the resin corporation will be a by-product of the paper-making process. It will be used to some extent in the manufacture of soap.

Establishment of the company follows announcement by Dr. Charles Hertz, who developed the pine-paper process, that pincknots and other fat substances for commercial exploitation.

SCHOOLBOY HELD IN FATHER'S DEATH

11-Year-Old Youth at Wrightsville Says He Shot Parent.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—An 11-year-old boy, Balls Ferry schoolboy was in the county jail here today while officers investigated the fatal shooting of his father.

In jail, the boy told a reporter his name was Russell Smith, and that his father was Richard Smith, 44, a farmer.

A reporter for the Wrightsville Headlight quoted the boy as saying he shot his father in defense of himself and his mother.

Balls Ferry is on the western section of the county, bordering on Wilkinson county.

MASONS TO MEET IN MACON TODAY

Abit Nix Will Ask Continuance of Citizenship Program.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Georgia Masonic leaders, at the opening session of the 1936 meeting of the Grand Lodge of Georgia tomorrow, will be asked to continue the citizenship program as one of the permanent objectives of the state-wide group. It was learned here today.

The citizenship campaign was inaugurated by Abit Nix, grand master of Georgia Masons, early this year and it has been one of the major objectives of the administration.

Tomorrow Grand Master Nix will ask the Grand Lodge to designate the citizenship program and the public school work program as permanent features of Masonic activity.

Grand Lodge officers, masters and past masters of the 529 lodges in Georgia, and many visitors will attend the two-day annual gathering. Many began arriving today.

CARLOAD OF PECANS MOVES FROM MOULTRIE

MOULTRIE, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A solid carload of pecans, the first of the season in this area, has been moved to market from Moultrie.

The carload, second ever to be shipped from Moultrie, was dispatched to a St. Louis receiving point. Loaders said the car contained 31,776 pounds of nuts, which were valued at slightly less than $4,000.

The first car of pecans ever loaded at the Moultrie point was dispatched to market last February.

Local pecan dealers said they had purchased approximately 75,000 pounds of pecans, valued at about $9,000, since opening of the season several weeks ago, and estimated the part of the crop that will be handled through the Moultrie markets at 750,000 pounds for the year.

Landon's Philadelphia Talk

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The text of the address of Governor Alf M. Landon delivered in Philadelphia tonight follows:

It is not only a privilege—it is a great honor—to be speaking tonight in the city where the constitution of the United States was written. We are entering the last week of a campaign in which the fundamental issue is the preservation of the constitution and the American way of life.

On November 3 we must decide if we want a free and popular government or a government which concentrates increasing power in the chief executive. That is the issue in this campaign.

The President says this issue is a fairy tale—a political "bogey man." He underestimates the American people. They cannot be thrown off the track so easily. They can see through reassuring words spoken in an election year. The record since March 3, 1933, is no fairy tale.

We know how "planned economy" was foisted on us without mandate. We know how the heavy hand of government forced its way into our daily lives.

TALK ABOUT WASTE OF THE NEW DEAL

We know how this administration has ignored the constitutional checks and balances established by the men who sat in this city of Philadelphia in 1787.

Tonight I am going to discuss a policy that upsets these checks and balances—a policy that could have been carried out except by ignoring these checks and balances—a policy that violates the constitution. I am going to talk about the waste and extravagance of this administration. I am going to talk about this administration's open and audacious use of public money for political purposes.

Our constitution is a practical document. One of its objects is to protect the public funds. It requires that the public funds are the people's funds—that they do not come by magic from some inexhaustible source. The only source of public funds is the people. Too many of us forget this.

We forget that the waste of this administration is waste of the people's money—our money. The extravagance of this administration is extravagance with the people's money—our money. And it is the people's money—our money—that has been used to create the most sinister political machine of our history. No words of idealism, no claims of good intention, can shift the responsibility for this machine. The responsibility rests upon one man—and one man alone. It rests upon the President of the United States.

WE'RE THE TAXPAYERS WHO FOOT THE BILLS

Who is going to pay the bill for all this spending? We are. Who is paying the 12 billions which this administration has already collected? We are.

Who is going to pay the additional 13 billion dollars it has borrowed? We are.

Who is going to pay if this extravagance continues? We are. Who is going to pay an end to this extravagance? We are.

We are the taxpayers and it is the taxpayer who foot the bill. Speaking as a candidate for election in 1932, the President said, "taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors." But speaking as a candidate for re-election in 1936, he would have us believe that taxes are paid only out of the coffers of the rich.

How forgetful the President must think we are.

Speaking at Worcester last Wednesday, he made the statement that consumers' taxes—the hidden taxes which fall much more heavily on the poor man than on the rich—had been reduced during his administration.

TAXES ARE PAID IN SWEAT OF LABORER

This is an amazing statement. It is an amazing statement because only a year ago, in a public letter dated September 2, 1935, he said exactly the opposite. This was the famous letter in which he offered a "breathing spell" to American business. In this letter he wrote these words: "In 1929 consumers' taxes represented only 30 per cent of the national revenue. Today they are 60 per cent."

Just how forgetful does the President think we are? The record proves the President was right the first time. "Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors." It is not the well-to-do who are going to pay the bill. They have that much money. If the government last year had confiscated every penny of all incomes above $5,000 it would not have had enough to pay the cost of our federal government. The bulk of the money always comes from the men and women who labor in our workshops, on our farms and in our offices.

It is the little fellow who pays. It is the little fellow who suffers from government extravagance. It is the little fellow who needs the safeguards of the constitution—and particularly the safeguards against waste of the public funds.

HOUSE TAX LAWS SEEN AS SAFEGUARD

One of the most important of these safeguards is the provision that all revenue legislation be initiated in the house of representatives. This safeguard was put into our constitution for a very definite reason. It was put in because the house of representatives is the branch of our government closest to the people. It was put in because the men who framed our constitution knew the power of the purse. They knew that if injustice was to be prevented, the people, through their representatives, must control the purse. This is as true now as it was in 1787.

But under this administration revenue bills have not originated in the house of representatives. They have been drafted by the executive branch of the government and driven through congress without adequate debate.

Hand in hand with the violation of this constitutional safeguard, has gone the demand of the President that congress transfer to him its control over the spending of public funds.

Year after year the President has

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys
Many of those growing, nagging, painful backache people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheum, joint pain, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, and successfully relieve your backache in 40 days. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

gone to congress and demanded vast sums to be spent at his discretion. He demanded blank checks totaling over $13,000,000,000. Congress felt the political power of these billions. It surrendered its responsibility over the public purse—its duty to protect the people's money.

WE HAD TO INVENT WORD "BOONDOGLING"

And what happened when congress surrendered this responsibility? What kind of spending did we get? To describe the kind of spending that deluged the country we had to invent a new word—"boondoggling." Public money was spent to count the trees in the capitol of your state. Public money was spent to measure the cubic contents of buildings. Public money was spent to build a giant concrete checker board.

It seemed to matter little so long as public money was spent. We got exactly the kind of spending the President assured us we would not get. When he demanded a blank check for $4,800,000,000 he said it would be used for useful projects. In fact he said, "to put 1,000 men to work with picks and shovels to dig up a water main on one side of the highway and lay it again on the other side of the highway, is not only a silly project but it destroys the morale of the men who are doing the job."

The President was right. This kind of work does destroy morale. But taking up a water main on one side of the highway and laying it down again on the other is not as bad as taking up people from one part of the country and putting them down in another. Two hundred and seventy-five million dollars was allotted to this resettlement project. It cost more than the whole standing army of the United States last year. All the new soak-the-rich taxes of 1935 could not pay for this one piece of extravagance alone.

HAS USED POWER TO COERCE VOTERS

When we do things like that we have lost all sense of proportion. No government can afford such waste. It can afford it least of all when its people are struggling out of a great depression.

But there is an even more serious side to this violation of the constitutional rights of congress. This is the enormous power which money gives the President. It enables him to short-circuit state governments and thereby to exercise powers not granted to him by the constitution.

But even this is not all. This administration has used the power of the purse to do more than breakdown home-rule. This administration has used it to coerce voters.

No one knows better than the people of Pennsylvania the brazen manner in which this policy has been applied in the name of relief. The unemployed have been told that if they do not support the President they will be thrown off the relief rolls. Scores of millions of public money have been poured into Pennsylvania in a desperate effort to carry the state in the coming election. No one knows better than the people of Pennsylvania the growing resentment of the public against an administration so callous to public decency that it tries to force people to sell their votes for bread.

END USE OF RELIEF FUNDS FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES

When I take office as chief executive I shall put an end to the use of relief funds for political purposes. And I shall put an end to the use of public funds for political purposes.

And I shall put an end to the use of public funds for the building and maintaining of a propaganda machine in Washington. This has been a growing evil for many years, but never before has it ever approached its present size.

It is time to call a halt to this growing abuse. The national committee of the party in power should pay its own bills.

It is also time that we restored the Bureau of the Budget to its proper place in our government. Fifteen years ago this bureau was established to hold down expenditures and weed out waste and extravagance. It is supposed to be an independent agency. Its job is to take the budget estimates of the various departments and pare them down to the minimum. But since August, 1934, when Lewis W. Douglas resigned in protest against the financial policies of the administration, we have had only an acting director of the budget. The bureau has become a part of the White House spending machine. I intend to restore this bureau to a position of independence with a competent director at its head.

And unless the present chief executive acts in the meantime, I shall fill still another office which is vacant—the office of Comptroller general.

The comptroller general is the legal watchdog over expenditures. He is the final judge of whether expenditures are made according to the law and for the purpose intended by congress. The office has been left vacant since last July. Everyone knows what happens when the boss is away.

In the multitude of activities performed by our government we cannot afford to be without the protection of a determined, non-partisan comptroller general. We must be sure that funds are spent for the purpose, and only for the purpose, for which they were appropriated.

Being a free and easy spender may be pleasant—for a while. A spendthrift lives more handsomely—for a while. A spendthrift nation can put on a show of prosperity—for a while. But the day of reckoning always comes. Sometime the spendthrift must pay the bill.

If we continue our spendthrift course, if we continue our unbalanced budget, if we refuse to cut out the waste and frills of government, our day of reckoning will come sooner than any of us imagine. We need an administration that realizes even Uncle Sam can go broke.

RESOLVE THAT BELL WONT RING IN VAIN

The lesson of national bankruptcy is clear for all to read. We have seen what happens in nation after nation of the modern world. We have seen democracies fall and dictatorships rise. We have seen societies planned and liberties destroyed. And we have seen hard won constitutions first ridiculed and then, section by section, discarded and thrown away.

Human liberty, like a tree, grows slowly. For more than 700 years the race has struggled for the liberties embodied in our constitution. But an ax can fell the sturdiest tree in a few short hours. Our liberties can be lost almost as quickly. This administration wields the same ax which has destroyed the liberties of much of the old world; an unbalanced budget, inflation of the currency, delegation of power to the chief executive, destruction of local self-government.

Let us then, here in Philadelphia, where the charter of our liberty was born, make this high resolve. Let us take an oath that the bell which rang here 150 years ago, shall not have rung in vain.

CUMMINGS SAYS F.D.R. PREVENTED COLLAPSE

'When House Is Falling, It's Not Extravagance To Borrow Prop,' He Holds.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Attorney General Homer Cummings defended the administration's fiscal policies tonight with a claim that President Roosevelt resorted to the nation's remaining asset—federal credit—when "our whole system was on the verge of collapse" and turned "a tragic hour into a national triumph."

"Which was the more important thing to do," Cummings asked, "balance the government's budget, or balance the people's budget? There can be but one answer."

"It called for a great constructive program which had to do with the intimate life of the nation and the rebuilding of the processes of industry and finance. The President set about the task of restoring American life so that these many budgets could be brought into balance."

The attorney general said there were times when a budget should be balanced and others "when it would be disastrous to balance it."

"When a house is falling and needs a prop," he said, "it is not extravagant to borrow the means to save the structure."

"The specter of utter despair was present in millions of households and for was a visitor at every hearthstone."

"Fortunately there was one great asset left—the credit of the government. It took courage to resort to it when, apparently, everything else was falling in ruins. . . . The choice had to be made. It was made—and it was triumphantly successful."

The attorney general lauded the records of Governor Horner and United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, and said he wished for the entire state ticket "a glorious victory in November."

The address was broadcast over a state-wide radio hookup.

Fall Garden NOTES

I am sure I don't think that I am influenced by the name, but I do like English laurel with an English home. It is so dignified and dependable, the very qualities that we associate with anything English. And it also like the pyracantha, or hawthorn. I especially like the red ones, and of these you will find yunnanensis with a nice foliage, and it holds its red berries until Christmas. The very tall orange berries are lalandi, and the one with yellow berries is angustifolia. They will all grow in the shade, but you will not have berries unless they get plenty of sunshine. They are quite subject to red spider in the summer, and scale in the winter, so you must never neglect them. On the walls of this English type home we would like to have at least some English ivy growing, for it softens the brick and seems so suitable. All of these plants will grow in the shade, I wonder if it is because we always think of old oak trees when we think of England?

To sum up this front yard planting I will repeat that the first thing to consider is dignity, a continuous dignity throughout the year. Make a plan, no matter how simple your place, and keep working toward its completion. Choose the better shrubs, which also have the advantage of slow growth, then your planting remains pleasing for years and years. You will find that the cheap shrubs are the ones that grow so rapidly they lose their shape, and it takes much skillful pruning to keep them suitable. And another important thing is to keep your front area in orderly condition. Do not let anyone cut corners, thus making unsightly trails across your grass plot. Do not let dead branches and twigs remain on your shrubs, they can be cut off any day. Do not let coniferous evergreens look as though they need a haircut, but shear them every year. Do not buy one of every kind of shrub, thinking that you add interest to your planting.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Does anybody know who is the most welcome visitor at the front door of Mr. and Mrs. America these autumn days? It's the postman. Thousands of fond parents, separated for the first time from their fledglings are ravenously hungry for news from the college front. But the youngsters as soon as they have finished their letters, and of heart, head and stomach ache, symptoms of homesickness, are likely to neglect the letters that spell peace to mind to the families back home. Studies, sports, sororities, fraternities, new friends and strange experiences fill up the hours and the youngsters say, "I didn't get the family letter off but they will understand that no news is good news." Little do the young things guess what it is costing mother and dad to put them and keep them there. Clothes, books, tuition and board have dropped into their laps in this far country as clothes, books, food and board have always dropped into their laps from fruitful family trees. That's nothing to write home about. But mother doing without the new curtains and dad wearing his old clothes know better.

Dad may be contented with the knowledge that John and Mary are studying hard, taking their place in college life, living within their allowances, and keeping out of trouble. But mother wants the nice juicy letter from Mary, telling her that the food is good, the wardrobe adequate, the roommate congenial, the professors sympathetic and that Mary is happy, not homesick. Mother can't sleep at night until she can sleep in John's own handwriting that he isn't smoking too many cigarettes, nor drinking too much beer, nor playing polo, nor moving in bad company, nor being deep is sweeter if she knows there is somebody to darn his socks, sew on his buttons and mother him.

No news from the college front is bad news to parents separated from their children. It is the proof that the boys and girls haven't much appreciation of what is being done for them. It is the reminder to mother and dad that their training has been at fault, else the children would have enough consideration to take time off and write what they are doing and thinking. Dad may laugh off the neglect and remark that youngsters these days can't be counted on for anything but pursuit of their selfish pleasure but mother's hungry heart aches for letters.

Young folks, give the old folks a break! The postoffice sells postal cards at a penny apiece, stamped, ready to be written on and dropped in the box. You can dash one off while the crown is assembling for class. You can jot down your daily doings between the first and second call for dinner. You can give a few sentences that will make mother's heart light while you are waiting for the date and you can send dad a word of greeting that makes him prance proudly to the office. All in a minute of time, for the price of a penny, you can give your parents peace of mind. This is a small price to pay for the big things they are doing for you.

Mrs. Frank S. Ellis was co-hostess, and assisted her daughter, Mrs. Newman, in entertaining.

YOUR FIGURE, MADAME

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

SWIM FOR SYMMETRY.

Swim, if you want the figure of a mermaid... for there is nothing like swimming for streamlining the body. This recreation of beauty queens pays royalties in health, symmetry and grace. Turn back the pictures of the bathing costume—an affair of ankle-length pantaloons, billowing skirts, and strokes, just coming into use as an excellent corrective for rounded shoulders and shallow chest. In this stroke, the swimmer lies on her back, the arms describing large backward circles. Be sure to reach the arms backward to their full extension and complete the circles with the hands down at the sides. For speed, use alternate arms. Most of the leg action is in the lower part of the legs, with the kicking from the knees. You will feel a definite pull and stretch on all the trunk muscles.

The old, plodding breaststroke is now better known for its corrective gymnastic value than for its efficiency in swimming. Here you have a swim exercise that lifts the cage of the chest to give you a lovely bust contour and improved carriage, smoothing and firming meanwhile the muscles of the upper arms and shoulders. In the crawl, the action of the arms just the reverse of the breaststroke, the swimmer is on her face, and the feet may be worked in the flutter kick, holding the knees straight and kicking from the hips. You may like to get additional exercise for the hips by practicing your kicking at the rail of the pool. Hold on to the rail with both hands, your face turned toward the water and your body floating free. Now kick the legs rhythmically in wide, powerful strokes, 50 times—enough!

Plan to swim every week, because this exercise is really worth the time and money. It is relaxing, develops the body symmetrically, strengthens the functional organs and promotes health. With those things go the lovely proportions that distinguish the Kellermans and the Jarretts.

Miss Ann Pappenheimer Heads Tallulah Group at North Fulton

Miss Ann Pappenheimer, newly elected president of the Junior Circle for the Tallulah Falls school presided at the reorganization meeting of the group yesterday at her home on Woodward way. A feature of the meeting was election of the corps of officers to assist Miss Pappenheimer, including Misses Sara Feeney, vice president; Margie Troutman, secretary, and Margie Ward, treasurer.

The circle includes a prominent group of the younger set and was organized in 1933 with Miss Edith Shepherd as president. During the past year, Tallulah activities were discontinued at the school and with the resumption this fall of the work with Miss Pappenheimer as the popular leader, bids fair to climax in one of unusual work and financial benefit.

Miss Pappenheimer is well-qualified to assume leadership of the group, for she has done outstanding work for the school. Her mother, Mrs. Jack Pappenheimer, is a valued member of the young Matrons' Circle. Miss Pappenheimer is a noted horsewoman, having taken an outstanding part in the shows sponsored by the Young Matrons' Circle. She is numbered among popular members of the younger set and is a member of the Phi Pi Club. In addition to new members of the circle, attending the meeting were: Mrs. John K. Orley, president of the board of trustees of the Tallulah Falls school; Miss Marjorie Carmichael, president of the Girls' Circle, and Miss Yolande Gwin, honorary president of the Girls' Circle. The circle meets on November 9, with Miss Sara Feeney, on Rumson road in Garden Hills.

Scholarship Honors Mrs. Ida Vausden.

The scholarship sponsored by the Lucian Lamar Knight Class of Druid Hills Presbyterian church has been named the Ida Vausden Memorial scholarship in memory of a beloved member and assistant teacher of the class.

Ida Albaugh was born in Louisville, Ky., April 10, 1885, attended Mary Baldwin College and Northwestern University and graduated from Wesley Memorial Hospital Training School for Nurses and went in 1908 as a missionary to China. In 1919 she married J. R. Vausden there and they returned to the United States to live. Although she never went back to China, Mrs. Vausden was always vitally interested in missions and was a true home missionary, every ready to use her talents wherever needed.

The Lucian Lamar Knight Class has maintained a scholarship at Montreat Training College for eight years, but this year has transferred it to Assembly's Training school at Richmond, Va. The class is glad to be able in this way to honor one whose life was lived for others.

Attended Dance At East Lake Club.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Willer, of Kennesaw, N. C. were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowe.

With F. W. Rade were Miss Gladys Rickenbacker, H. L. Ralls and R. P. Fraser.

Mrs. A. B. White, Mr. and Mrs. George Hiles, M. F. Hogg formed a party.

Visitors, Debutante Honored at Party.
Miss Bright Bickertoff entertained at bridge, followed by tea, yesterday at her home on Lullwater road in compliment to a duo of the season's most attractive visitors, Miss Carrie Marshall Young, of Charlotte, N. C., and Miss Elizabeth Morton, of Lynchburg, Va., who are the featured guests of Mrs. Gillespie Sadler at her home on Thirteenth street. Sharing honors with these belles was Miss Nancy Waldo Jones, popular debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Jones.

Garden flowers in the autumn shades of red, yellow and bronze, adorned the reception apartments of the home. Tea was served at the bridge tables. Miss Bickertoff was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. C. A. Bickertoff, and her aunt, Mrs. C. A. Simms. Invited to meet the honor guests were the members of the 1936-37 Debutante Club.

Allen-Atchison.

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Oct. 26.—Of interest is the announcement of Mrs. Bonnie Allen to Algerine Augustus Atchison, of Savannah, which was solemnized on July 26 in Quincy, Fla., with Judge Dyal performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Allen came to Bainbridge two years ago to accept a position with Dora's Beauty Shoppe at which she worked until a few months ago. While here she was a popular member of the younger contingent.

Mr. Atchison finished school in Savannah and for the past nine years has been connected with the Standard Oil Company. Mr. and Mrs. Atchison will reside in Valdosta.

Women Voters' League Departments Will Combine Their Meetings

Department of economic welfare and department of child welfare of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, sponsors a study group led by the chairman of the department, Mrs. James Selva and Mrs. John Bobbitt, chairman, have decided to combine their group meetings for the present since there are interests common to both groups.

The first meeting will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning at headquarters in the Forsyth building. Mrs. Bobbitt will preside and in order to give members a comprehensive picture of the welfare situation, she will outline the allocations of social responsibility in federal, state, county and city governments. She will present a carefully worked out program for a course of study to be illustrated by visits to the various welfare organizations.

The newly organized business women's group of the League elected Miss Virginia Keyer chairman of the group. The group meets on Thursday at 6 o'clock at League headquarters. Mrs. R. L. Turman will speak on the newly published book of the League, "Outline of City Government."

The staff of the League meets on Friday at 10:30 o'clock at League headquarters and the 1937 program and the coming League elections will be discussed. Miss Eleanor Knott will discuss the "Preferential Count."

On Monday evening Mrs. J. H. Gibbs will talk on the "Social Security Act" at League headquarters at 7:30 o'clock and anyone interested is invited.

Mrs. Herman Kulman, chairman of department of government and education, announces that the meeting of the study group sponsored by that department has been cancelled out of respect to Mrs. A. E. Sanderson.

Mrs. Stephen Ives, member of the board, will give a membership tea to her group at the home of Mrs. James Selva at 2492 Habersham road at 3 o'clock on Wednesday and new and prospective members will be welcome.

Mrs. James Boyd, chairman of the department of government and foreign policy, calls the attention of members to the Atlanta emergency peace campaign, to be held on Wednesday at Grace Methodist church.

National Official Sees Local Projects on Tour

On the last swing of a nation-wide tour by plane, Angelo R. Clas, newly appointed assistant administrator in charge of investigations for the Public Works Administration, visited Atlanta yesterday.

While visiting the various offices throughout the United States, Clas conferred with his special agents in charge and also consulted with the state directors, state engineer inspectors and housing officials of the Public Works Administration.

While in Atlanta, Clas visited the Techwood and University projects, accompanied by D. A. Calhoun, district housing manager, and Edward S. Ragdale, special agent in charge.

White Canes for Blind Proposed by Ordinance

Protection for blind and partially blind persons in Atlanta will be sought at council's meeting Monday through enactment of an ordinance arming such persons with white canes with red bottoms and tops.

The measure, proposed by the Atlanta Lions Club, of which Dr. Paul W. Key is president, prohibits the use of such canes by persons not afflicted with loss of sight and pedestrians and motorists alike will be under injunction to protect those bearing the insignia.

Violators of any of the provisions of the ordinance will be subject to fines not exceeding $100 or 30 days in the stockade, either or both at the discretion of the recorder.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—

"Cynics take note as you come and go. Youth has a dream and a leader who heeds it. Hark how the challenging echoes flow— Hold fast to your dream. America heeds it."

The above lines were sent me the other day by Mrs. Armstrong Allen, of Nashville, Tenn., and they strike a note of hope which I hope may prove itself in fact. If young America can dream dreams and hold fast to them, then a great future lies before us.

I still believe only the minority of youth thinks of material things and does not dream dreams for its own future and that of the race. Christ in His second commandment, "Love thy neighbor as thyself," laid the basis for all successful dreaming. It is borne in me more and more that only as our youth dreams in terms of living will this world see much change in philosophy or action.

For some time past some friends have been sending me the National Parent-Teacher Magazine. It is interesting even if you do not belong to the Parent-Teacher organization, for all of us are interested in youth. Two lines of an editorial in the October issue by Mrs. Langworthy may give parents food for thought. She writes:

"Why not enjoy life's October, for its precious beauty and brilliance as we do Nature's October, with no foreboding and with real anticipation?"

It is a grand idea, but how can we do it unless we are sure that the youth of today is really dreaming dreams? Certainly, we cannot enjoy the October of our lives with the fear hanging over us that history is going to repeat itself.

We have had two lovely days in the country and the four grandchildren seem to be thriving.

An amusing request came in yesterday. It seems that on our drive from Niagara to Buffalo the President's hat blew off and a little boy picked it up. He says the President thanked him twice. On returning to his class, he and his classmates evidently decided he should have kept the hat, so they and their teacher all wrote letters to the President.

These letters came to me and really are most entertaining. They want that hat. I think it will have to be cut into a good many pieces if each child is to have his or her share. Perhaps they plan to hang it up in the classroom. In any case, I'm trying to get it for them, but they have no idea of my husband's affection for a campaign hat. He clings to them like a barnacle to a rock.

DR. COLLINS TO SPEAK Miss Lala Lilienthal Weds Mr. Lesser at Temple Ceremony

IN NATIONAL CAMPAIGN

State School Head Will Join Democratic Forces for Roosevelt.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, will "go on the firing line" for President Roosevelt and the Democratic party, as announced yesterday.

He has been invited by Sam Rayburn, chairman of the speaker's bureau of the Democratic national campaign committee, and Paul C. Aiken, director of the bureau, to speak for the President in several pivotal states. Dr. Collins plans to leave immediately to appear wherever the national party leaders wish him to speak.

In addresses at Tifton and Americus last week, Dr. Collins asked Georgia voters to run up a huge total for President Roosevelt in this state, and to defeat the proposed 15-mill tax limitation amendment which will be voted on in the November 3 general election. He called attention to the administration of President Roosevelt, which has resulted in the repairing or building of 1,000 schools in the state in the past three years and the governmental contribution of $1,600,000 with which to pay the salaries of rural teachers in 1934.

PAY IS UNCHANGED

Councilmen To Receive No More, Savage Rules.

Atlanta council members will receive no pay increase under the resolution passed last week by council restoring half of a 10 per cent pay cut to city employees. City Attorney Jack C. Savage ruled yesterday.

He upheld the contention of Aubrey Milam, chairman of the finance committee, that the resolution did not affect the pay of council members. Under the city attorney's ruling members will continue to draw $45 only until they pass another measure specifically increasing their pay.

A PRINCESS FROCK THAT'S JUST A BIT "DIFFERENT."

Everything about this frock is outstanding! The radiance of glittering buttons, youthful Eton collar, jaunty pockets, immaculate tailoring, newest sleeves, princess lines, swing skirt and a "velvet touch." More beauty and more luxury than you'd think possible. But—the real story is in the making.

Nothing "foxy" about this pattern, it's just a straight-away job of cutting and sewing—goes together easily and quickly and costs so little you'll want to make two frocks. One with short sleeves, a leather belt and button trim, the other as shown with the open-down-the-front effect and long sleeves. Whichever you choose the outcome will be magnificent. Try a moire taffeta, velvet, broadcloth, satin or velveteen and you'll have a certain "something" that's young and smart.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1993-B is available for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4-3/4 yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves, and 4-3/4 yards for long sleeves. Price of pattern 15 cents. No sent stamp.

Send for the Fall Barbara Bell Pattern Book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for the little children and the difficult junior age; slenderizing, well-cut patterns for the mature figure, afternoon dresses for the most particular young women and matrons and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the Barbara Bell Pattern Book. MR. AND MRS. FRANK S. LESSER.

The marriage of Miss Lala Lilienthal to Frank S. Lesser, of this city and Rome, was solemnized last evening at the Temple on Peachtree street by Rabbi David Marx. The altar was beautifully decorated with palms and chrysanthemums. Dr. Charles Sheldon played appropriate music before the service and the processional and recessional wedding marches.

Acting as ushers were Joseph Haas, Alfred Myers, Jacob Haas, Frank Myers, Julian Josclore, George Kahn Jr., Lewis Long and Nathan Kahn Jr. The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Nathan Kahn Jr., was the first of the attendants to enter the church and she was a beautiful figure wearing a gown of pink slipper satin. She carried a bouquet of pastel shaded flowers. The bride's sister, Miss Elizabeth Lilienthal, the maid-of-honor, wore a gown of blue slipper satin and her old-fashioned bouquet was formed of varicolored flowers.

The bride was accompanied to the altar by her father, L. B. Lilienthal, and the groom was escorted by his brother, Herman Lesser, of Rome. The bride was a striking figure wearing the handsome wedding gown of her mother, the former Miss Madeline Hirsch, which she wore when she became the bride of Mr. Lilienthal 27 years ago. The gown of white satin was overdressed with a tulle of hand-embroidered white net, the long satin train extending from underneath the tulle of rose point lace trimmed the bodice of the beautiful gown which featured long satin sleeves. She wore a bridal veil of rose point lace, worn first by her aunt, Mrs. Joseph Hirsch, and later by her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Oberdorfer Jr. Mrs. Gabriel Schoen and Mrs. Oscar Strauss Jr. The bride's bouquet was formed of gardenias and valley lilies designed in old-fashioned style and bordered with fragile lace.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a family reception at their home on Briarcliff road. Mrs. Lilienthal was groomed in silver lace and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Harry Lesser, the groom's mother, was attired in white crepe and her shoulder spray was formed of gardenias.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. A. Applebaum, of Tusculossa, Ala.; Mrs. Gus Goodman, of Baltimore, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lesser and Herman Lesser, of Rome, Ga.

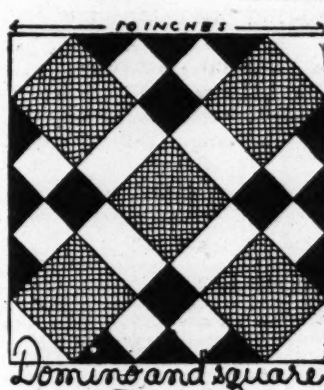

Mr. Lesser and his bride left in the late evening for a month's cruise to Mexico by way of Havana, Cuba. Upon their return the latter part of November they will be at home with the bride's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Girls' High school and the New York School of Fine and Applied Art. Mr. Lesser is an honor graduate of the University of Georgia.

You Square the Domino Here and Not the Circle

Domino and Square

"Here is an easy pattern, easy on the eye and easy to make. It calls for three different materials. They may be all plain, using different shades of the same color, or you may have three contrasting colors, or you may use plain and printed pieces. It would be possible, too, to make the larger squares of varicolored materials. Not in the same piece block, of course, but in adjacent ones. The smaller squares that look black on the picture ought to be of just one material throughout the quilt. The use of those and the plain white for the rectangles and the white squares will give unity to the quilt.

"Of course, you could use a white background with small figured black or red or blue in place of the plain white. This gives a quilt an older look but it makes the top more difficult to make for quilting. Use your own judgment."

The Nancy Page club members sent for the direction leaflet with its tracing pattern. They traced this onto lightweight cardboard, and then cut out the pieces.

These were used as patterns and laid on the goods. A sharp pencil point traced the outlines of the pieces. After the outlines were traced the pieces were cut out. A seam allowance of one quarter inch was left on all sides around the pieces.

These blocks may be put together on the diagonal or they may be placed straight as shown in the picture. When this is done the alternate blocks are of 12-inch squares. Or sewing may be used to set the pieced blocks together.

In purchasing the material for this quilt you will have to decide ahead of time just how you are going to put the blocks together, and decide on the size of the finished quilt, too, and make up your mind as to whether you want a border. All of these things enter into the consideration of the amount of material needed. That is why it is so difficult to give a general rule. For a full size quilt, made long enough to go over the pillows and to act as a bedspread you will want to have the finished quilt 106 inches long and 90 inches wide. A three quarter size bed needs 82 to 84 inches in width and the same length, 106 inches. A single bed requires a quilt of the same length but only 72 inches wide. If you have an unusual sized bed count on a drop of 18 inches and each side and at the bottom. Add this amount to the width and length of the top and you have the correct dimensions.

Direction leaflet for "Domino and Square" Quilt Design may be obtained by sending three cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

FUEL OIL REVENUE HIGHER IN OCTOBER

Gasoline Tax Brings State

$1,558,328 of Total of

$1,585,645.

Comptroller General Homer C. Parker reported yesterday fuel oil tax collections for the state in October totaled $1,585,645.

Of this sum, the six cents a gallon tax on gasoline brought into the state $1,558,328.22. The kerosene tax of one cent a gallon raised $27,417.05.

Four of the six-cent tax on gasoline goes to the highway board, one cent to the counties and one cent to the school equalization fund.

The September collections of both kerosene and gasoline tax totaled $1,663,217.26, and for October, 1935, $1,342,133.13.

The figures are for the month ending October 26.

Tech Has 60-Minute Line--Georgia Proves 2d-Half Team

COLLINS, SIMS TO MISS GAME WITH CLEMSON

Appleby Praised for 60-Minute Play; Monday Drills Short.

By Jack Troy.

With leaden skies overhead and a soggy turf underfoot, Georgia Tech players yesterday confined their work to practice on plays in an abbreviated workout at Grant field.

It appeared yesterday that both Fletcher Sims, who injured a leg in the Vandy game, and Red Collins, blocking back who missed the game because of a knee injury, will not play against the Clemson Tigers Saturday afternoon.

While Sims' leg injury is not as bad as it first appeared, Coach Bill Alexander is planning to keep Sims on the sidelines this week end. It was hoped that Collins would be available and give Dick Beard some relief, but the injury is slow in healing and Collins probably will be held out of action until the Auburn game.

NEW PLAY.

The Jackets worked on a new play during the course of their work on signals yesterday. It may or may not be for use in the Clemson game. Chances are it will be held in reserve for the Auburn Tigers.

Coach Alex had high praise yesterday for the work of Harry Appleby, 107-pound fullback, in the Vandy game.

Vanderbilt players were anxious after the game to know how much Appleby weighed. Coach Alex said, "They thought he weighed at least 195 pounds. They said he's the hardest driving fullback they've faced this season."

Appleby played the full 60 minutes. And he certainly made his presence known. He cracked the big Vandy line like a pile driver. It began to appear that Appleby, a Nashville boy, was going to steal the show. That is, the way he rammed the line. But the breaks—fumbles, interceptions and so on—kept him from getting a real crack at the goal line.

60-MINUTE LINE.

Another point that hasn't been stressed about the Tech line is the fact that, except for Bud Lindsey, the other six regulars played the full 60 minutes.

Charlie Preston sprained a finger, called time and had it taped up, and played all the way. Along with Preston, Bill Jordan, Ed Jones, Phil Chance, Captain Mit FitzSimons and Jack Nixon were "iron men."

It was brought to one's attention yesterday that the Tech team, as a whole, has less time to practice than most any other large college squad. For instance, many of the players had laboratory work yesterday. It was well after 4 o'clock before the full squad was on hand.

LACK OF PRACTICE.

If there's a military drill, even on the day of a game, the players are not excused. They must grab up that rifle and march.

However, Tech does rather well despite the irregularity of practice, it seems. Lawrence Hays will direct the Jackets eleven this week. He'll do the passing and most of the kicking. Hays carried on splendidly when Sims was hurt in the first half at Nashville.

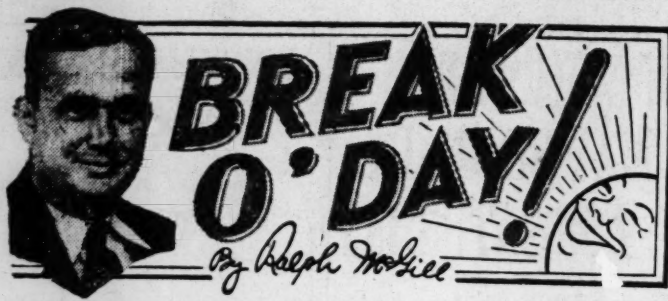

His running was great. The hope was expressed by a couple of onlookers yesterday that Tech would not take the Clemson game too lightly. "Take it too lightly," exclaimed Coach Alex, "We'll take it the best way we can, if we can."

Clemson Works Hard for Tech.

CLEMSON, S. C., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Clemson's Tigers went through a long session of rough practice today for the Georgia Tech game.

The strong freshman team furnished the opposition. Captain Joe Berry and Bill Bryant, a guard, continued to work in sweat clothes, because of injuries. Bob Bailey, sophomore triple threat, ran

Six years ago it fell to my lot to advise a guy. I advised Soldier Leavitt to quit the wrestling business because he was pretty terrible at it and to stick to his chicken farm.

And did he follow the advice?

He did not. He kept on trying to wrestle and found out he was a great actor and went ahead, combining both in the ring, and made a sizeable fortune. He became Man Mountain Dean, leading attraction in the rassing rings.

Last night he was around. He needs only a few box springs in his whiskers to have a face that looks like an old hair sofa. He still weighs about 360 pounds. He still has a nice little fortune stowed away in annuities, which he wouldn't have had if he had followed my advice six years ago.

"You retired me six years ago," he said. "Then a few months ago I retired myself. Now, I am going to let you bring me out again."

I guess it's the gypsy in him. He is going back to wrestling in a six months' program, opening with a big match in Madison Square Garden on November 18.

The money brought him out. He has a guarantee for so many matches with percentage privileges which, he figures, will net him about $10,000 in six months and so he's going to get it.

"What do you think about it?" he asked.

"Listen," said I. "I don't make a practice of giving advice to a fellow who can go out and pick up $10,000 in six months of now-and-then wrestling and making faces through whiskers. Because a guy who can do that doesn't need any advice. In fact," said I, "if you have any advice for me I'd like to hear it."

So, we went on from there. The Mountain is going to wrestle some more and make himself $10,000, if not more. The $10,000 is just what he is paying for a new house he has about finished up there near Norcross, Georgia.

THAT CHICKEN FARM.

"Listen," he said. "I am 46 years old. Six years ago I had quit coppering at Miami Beach and had spent all I had on that chicken farm out at Lakewood Heights.

"The chickens ate all the time. No one would buy the eggs or the chickens. So, finally, the wife and I started eating the chickens.

"Charlie Leahman, the wrestler, came out to stay with us. He was bringing in some groceries and training out there. I'd wrestle some. I started wrestling the same year Ed (Strangler) Lewis started. You wouldn't believe that.

"Well, I got a couple of tries in Atlanta. In the last one Milo Steinborn came out and pinned me in a few seconds. That was when you advised me to quit. Remember?

"Things were pretty tough. I was sick for that match which was why I looked so terrible. Pretty soon I heard there were some matches to be had in Germany because no one could bring money out of there. The wrestlers didn't like that. I investigated found they would let you spend what you made on eating and so I went over there."

THE ACTING PART.

He drew in a breath. And beamed through his whiskers. The Mountain is a good-natured giant and has a good heart and is known as a soft touch to his old friends who are down and out.

"I've lost a little weight," he said. "Picking up nails out there where they are building that house. Gee, carpenters miss a lot of them. They go whizzing about. And they cost plenty per pound. The little woman was telling people I am so Scotch I go picking up the nails. It's good exercise at that. You spill you three pounds of nails and pick 'em up every morning. Let's see, where was I?

"Oh, yes, in Germany. Well, I got a few matches. But there wasn't much money. One day a friend of mine said, 'Dean,' he said, 'they are trying to get some actors for this

SMITHIES FACE CADETS TONIGHT AT BALL PARK

Purples Meet Gordon Thursday Night in Week's Feature Tilt.

'Icky' Orenstein Is Back in Lineup

"Icky" Orenstein, Boys' High halfback, who was injured late in the game Friday night against Lanier High, will be okay for Gordon Thursday night. Orenstein suffered a dislocated vertebra and was taken unconscious from the field.

He was given treatment Monday morning and apparently had suffered no reverses from the injury. Flip Bond, end, who played against Lanier despite a sprained ankle also was much improved and will be ready to face Gordon at right end.

By Roy White.

Tech High and Marist College will open the week's prep football schedule at 8 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park. It is the first of three games to be played here and will be followed by Boys' High and Gordon on Thursday night and Decatur and Gainesville Friday night at Decatur. Commercial journeys to Augusta to play Richmond Academy Friday night, while Russell and G. M. A. have open dates.

Tech High with six wins and one defeat will rate the favorite, although Marist has been showing a decided improvement with each game. Marist scored its first touchdown last Friday against Rome in Rome, after four straight defeats without scoring. Rome won the game, 13 to 6, but Marist played much better than the score indicates.

NEXT TO LAST.

Tonight's game will be the next to last for the Smithies at Ponce de Leon, for next week Tech High goes to Asheville for a game with Asheville High. Boys' High will be played the following week and the season will be closed at Augusta with Richmond Academy on Saturday, November 21.

Tech High has developed one of the most colorful attacks ever presented by a Smithie team and a majority of the 173 points scored have been by forward passes and forward laterals.

And the Smithies have not resorted to any one combination for their passing attack. Paul Ellis and Wallace, the two quarterbacks, have been on the throwing end most of the time, with Childrey, Plaster and Timberlake, ends, and Pair, Phillips Allen and Hale, halfbacks, on receiving end.

VARIED ATTACK.

Tech High has varied its attack considerably and in recent games has employed the old end-around play to gain ground. Bobby Fair and Frankie Allen are the speedsters for the wide sweeping end runs, with Harrison and Stanford as line plungers.

Marist has one of its lightest teams in history, although it is plenty fast. The line is light, but has held its own in recent games against heavy opposition. Marist will depend entirely on speed in the backfield and forward passes to gain ground.

Lon Warneke Signs 1937 Card Contract

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Lon Warneke, right-handed pitcher obtained by the Cardinals in a trade with the Cubs recently, signed a one-year contract today.

The salary was not disclosed. Warneke, for whom the Cardinals gave the Cubs pitcher Leroy Parmelee and First Baseman Jim Collins, said there was no question in his mind about his complete recovery from an arm injury suffered in the 1935 World Series.

Conquerors of Duke Face Georgia Saturday

Major Robert R. Neyland, the smiling coach above, will send his upset-conquerors of Duke against the Georgia Bulldogs Saturday at Athens. The Vols of Tennessee startled the football world Saturday by overcoming the hitherto unbeaten and untied Blue Devils, 15-13, in the major upset of the day. No wonder Neyland is smiling! To the right is Bob Sneed, sophomore star, who will be back in the lineup against the Bulldogs. Notice how much energy he expends in booting the ball. Sneed, a triple threat back, has been out of the last two games with a knee injury.

HOFFMAN WON'T BUY DODGERS

BROOKLYN, Oct. 26.—(AP)—John Gorman, business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said today that no one representing Governor Harold G. Hoffman, of New Jersey, had attempted to buy the Dodgers.

"The rumor is being around for five days, but there's nothing to it as far as I know," Gorman said. Gorman also said he had heard nothing from George H. Warren, Jr., New Jersey fish and game commissioner, who "is negotiating in the Governor's behalf" for the Brooklyn team, according to a copyrighted article in the Newark Star Eagle.

Five Bands To Play At Bullpup Battle

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Reports say there will be more bands playing at the Georgia-Florida freshman football game here Saturday afternoon than at any college game in the entire season.

According to present plans there will be five bands playing at Saturday's game.

The five bands expected to play are the Savannah High school reserve officers training corps band, the Benedictine school drum and bugle corps, the firemen's band, the police band and the Shriner's band.

Cards' Attendance Alone Suffers Loss

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals were the only team in the National league that did not increase its attendance last season over the year before, Ford Frick, president of the league, said today.

Frick did not release the attendance figures, but said there was a 15 per cent increase all over the league. Despite their record at home, the Cards were the most popular club on the road he said.

Neely Believes Tech Vulnerable to Passes

Clemson Coach Almost Sure To Drill Team in Daring Aerial Offensive.

By Jack Troy.

Taking a tip from the Vanderbilt game, Coach Jess Neely, of Clemson, is almost sure to drill the Tigers in a daring aerial offensive for the game with the Tech Jackets Saturday afternoon at Grant field.

Clemson scouts had reported Tech as having a strong defense against passes. But Neely went away from the Vandy-Tech game with a different opinion of the Jackets' vulnerability to aerials.

Tech did have a good defense against passes. But something has happened since the Kentucky game. Duke practically beat the Jackets on passes.

And in the Vandy game—well, there were times when a hair-breadth meant the difference between successful execution and an incomprehension.

Big Bill Jordan is probably the unsung hero of that game. Jordan hit big Dick Plasman, Vandy captain, on the goal line just as Plasman had his hands on a touchdown pass.

It was late in the first quarter. Using running plays and passes, Vandy worked the ball to the 17-yard line. Joe Agee dropped back on fourth down, and passed to Plasman.

Nobody was there. Jordan came up fast and just as Plasman got his hands on the ball, Jordan hit him. It was a perfectly timed tackle.

Later on Jordan was out in the clear on a lone pass from Hays and a Vandy player pushed him. Officials missed it. The push sent Jordan just far enough off-balance to make him miss what probably would have been a touchdown pass.

But Tech did not have many opportunities through the air. The Vandy defense was set for Tech's hocus pocus passing.

Vandy had the majority of the chances through the air—which should be the case when a team throws as many as 22 passes—but timing was just off enough to save Tech defenders, who allowed receivers to get behind them, no little embarrassment.

Anyways, Coach Jess Neely saw enough to make him think that a passing game might make it interesting against the Jackets. And, goodness knows, a Clemson has a pretty fine pitching and catching combination in Captain Joe Berry, a back, and Sam McCouand, an end.

It is no very likely that Tech will be bothered with that innocuous mid-season let-down that hurts so many teams.

The Clemson game marks the half-way post.

It may be that the Jackets had their let-down against Vandy. They didn't show much spark.

If this be the case, they ought to get together again, whip Clemson and be primed for Auburn the following week. The Jackets are still much in the conference running. They have won two and tied one in the race. The Clemson game has no bearing, being an inter-conference affair, but the weeks following find Tech facing Auburn and Alabama in a row.

BULLDOGS PREP FOR VOL GAME THIS SATURDAY

Mehre Says Squad Played Best of Season Against Auburn.

By Felton Gordon.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 26.—Declaring that the Georgia team played the best yet in the Auburn encounter, Coach Mehre cast an eye in the direction of Tennessee this afternoon as he resumed preparations for the coming game with the Vols here Saturday afternoon.

Pete Tinsley, erstwhile guard who has been alternating at fullback and right back, today was shifted back to his old position in the line. He will play at the right guard spot in the Vol encounter since Captain J. C. Hall is definitely lost for the time.

LONG LECTURE.

A long lecture preceded the drill which was held on rain-soaked turf. The Georgia mentors brought out the had points which were evident in the Plainsman tilt. They were pleased with the play in the game as a whole. According to Auburn supporters the Plainsmen reached their peak of the season.

Center Quinton Lumpkin expressed the attitude of the whole squad when he stated: "They won the first half, we won the second."

The Bulldogs were also proud of the fact that they were the first foe, northern or southern, to cross the Tiger goal line to date.

Georgia mentors were discussing the way the squad has come back in every one of the five games to play in the second half. That holds true in the Mercer and Furman game was a scoreless tie at the half. The Bulldogs played better against S. C. U. in the latter phase, and looked good against Rice in the final quarters. This was taken as an indication that the squad doesn't find itself due to the lack of veterans.

SCOUT RETURNS.

Coach Vernon Smith returned from scouting the Vols' game with the statement that "they have a hard-fighting squad learning as the play." He was impressed by the defense strength. Coach Bob Neyland has two powerful lines and three sets of fleet backfields. In Phil Dickens the invaders will have an outstanding passer and punter. Porter and Wyatt are among the best pass receivers. Other passers included Sneed and Harp, who scored the winning touchdown Saturday.

A characteristic of the Vol team this season has been the fact it has climbed steadily with the first game which they won from Chattanooga, 13-0. They have suffered defeat at

Gophers-Wildcats Top National Slate

THE SPORTLIGHT by GRANTLAND RICE

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

WHAT IS THIS?

I looked upon these headlines—and my face turned deadly white—
"The Bulldog stalks the Tiger in his lair."
"The Fordham Ram is ready and is spilling for the fight,"
As the Panther's fangs are gleaming in the air."

"The Wildcat from Northwestern and the Gopher square away"—
"The Wolverines are snarling in their pain"—
"Columbia's wounded Lion moves again to stalk its prey"—
"The Longhorn on a stampede down the plain."

"The Green Wave is a tidal wave that strikes with deadly thrust"—
"The Crimson Tide is crashing on the shore"—
"Blue Devils scamper out of Duke to batter and to bust"—
(I don't believe my nerves can stand for more.)

"Michigan," writes a western correspondent, "is thinking about moving east where there are no Minnesotas or Indiana or Michigan States or Northwesterns." Yes, but there is still a Pittsburgh and a Fordham, and, on November 7, there may be a Penn quite different from 1935.

In his excellent history of the Olympic games, John Kieran shows how professionalism broke into amateur sport 2,000 years ago. And 2,000 years from now, the same thing will be happening, as long as the human race retains a good part of its so-called human qualities. In Mr. Kieran's book, one fighter fixed three opponents without a manager cutting in. Maybe they were even smarter than now.

The Danger Line Again.

The list of the unbeaten who wade up to their necks in trouble on Saturday is longer than usual. Here it is—Fordham facing Pittsburgh, with the bounding Goldberg lugging the ball—Minnesota and Northwestern—both unbeaten—Auburn and Santa Clara—the same—Yale against a high-class Dartmouth team—Holy Cross at Temple—Marquette meeting St. Mary's Friday night—L. S. U. vs. Vanderbilt—Texas A. & M. at Arkansas.

What Is What.

"Golf," remarked a well-known pro, "is about 25 per cent swinging ability—60 per cent mental attitude—and 15 per cent condition. There are far more golfers with good swings than there are golfers who have a winning mental attitude."

I asked Slip Madigan, before starting for Chicago, to dissect football in the same way. "I'd say football was 60 per cent fight," Madigan said. "This can also mean mental attitude for the day in question. No team can remain keen and keyed up every Saturday. Look what happened to Pittsburgh against Duquesne—and then to Duquesne against West Virginia. West—nearly all so-called upsets result from a heavy let down by the better-looking team."

"This mental attitude affects blocking and tackling more than anything else. And blocking and tackling are the winning part of football—where the bruising, battering part, also the temptation to ease up is strongest when you are not keyed up."

The Rocky Mountain Range.

"Why is it," says H. H. D., "that Rocky mountain football turns out to be some of the best such as Dutch Clark—and yet gets so little publicity around the country?"

As our correspondent says, there are too many Rocky mountain stars. One answer is that the Rocky mountain sector sticks pretty well to its own conference. The southwest was in the same fix until Southern Methodist and others began to show their ways outside of Texas.

Another is that over 400 teams are now in the field, and you couldn't write a piece about each one in a year's time—much less two months. Those nearest the larger centers of publicity get the break this way.

The Top Five.

"Have you the nerve," writes Steadman, "to pick the five best teams in the country now?"

This assignment isn't so much a matter of nerve as it is a lack of common sense.

The No. 1 pick is Minnesota. Just back of the Gophers, you might find a careful look and find Nebraska, Washington, L. S. U. and Pittsburgh, Tulane, Army, Auburn and Northwestern may force their way into this group later—but we are talking now about October—not late November.

The same is true of Fordham and Southern Methodist, or Texas A. & M. and Marquette. Fordham and Yale have turned in the two best jobs in the east, beating Southern Methodist, St. Mary's, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Navy. A good Army team has been tested so far in only one big game. And Columbia was beaten by Michigan.

There can't be any debate about Minnesota's place, with 35 points to 7 against Washington, Nebraska and Purdue. Both Washington and Nebraska have proved their power. So have L. S. U. and Pitt, in spite of a tie and a defeat.

We'll be in much better position to tell you about it next Saturday night. It's a longer way to late November than it is to Tippecanoe, with most of the hot spots still lurking on beyond.

FORDHAM MEETS PANTHER ELEVEN IN GREAT BATTLE

Army-Colgate, Auburn-Santa Clara, Buckeyes-Irish Other Features.

By Jack Cuddy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Minnesota's mighty Gophers will slam into Northwestern's fighting Wildcats for a thunderous and significant brawl at Evanston, Ill., Saturday, with hopes for the Big Ten title and mythical national championship probably hanging on the scoreboard.

This collision between two perfect-record titans of the midwest easily is the banner game of the week end, although three smashing encounters on far-flung fronts will command plenty of attention: Pittsburgh-Fordham at New York, St. Mary's-Marquette at Chicago, and Auburn-Santa Clara at San Francisco.

These two teams are standouts among the nation's ten remaining major perfect-record outfits. Fordham, Marquette and Santa Clara are included in that ten, and each of the trio risks disaster this week.

PITT-FORDHAM.

Rebounding from an upset by Duquesne, Pittsburgh's Golden Panthers sharpened their claws on poor Notre Dame last week and will try to make a meal of the Fordham Rams at the Polo Grounds. It should be a grand battle. Meanwhile Marquette, after drubbing Michigan, State, will entertain the same rugged St. Mary's outfit Friday night that Fordham nosed out by one point Saturday. And at San Francisco, sturdy little Santa Clara will entertain Auburn, one of the strongest teams in all Dixie—strong enough to beat Georgia, Detroit and Tennessee and hold Tulane to a scoreless tie. Santa Clara has had an extra week's rest for this encounter.

Other hostilities may be mapped as follows:

EAST—Four excellent teams risk their perfect records against stiff opposition: Holy Cross vs. Temple; Army vs. Colgate; Yale vs. Dartmouth; and Villanova vs. Bucknell. Other pairings are: Michigan State-Boston College; Miami (Fla.)-Boston U.; Purdue-Carnegie Tech.; Columbia-Cornell; Princeton-Harvard; Pennsylvania Navy, N. T. U.-Lafayette; Penn State-Syracuse.

MIDWEST—In addition to the Minnesota-Northwestern extravaganza, three other Big Ten games are slated: Indiana-Iowa, Michigan-Illinois and Wisconsin-Chicago. In the Big Six, leading Southern Methodist, Missouri and Iowa State meets Oklahoma outside the conference. Notre Dame will try a comeback against Ohio State. Arizona invades Kansas. Tulsa plays Kansas State and on Friday, Duquesne—victim of the stunning West Virginia Wadsworth—spurs—the comeback trail against Detroit.

SOUTHEAST—In the Southeastern conference, Tennessee, conqueror of Duke, engages Georgia, while Kentucky plays Alabama, and Vanderbilt meets Louisiana State. In the Southern conference, Duke attempts to rebound against Washington and Lee, while North Carolina tackles North Carolina State, and Virginia squares off against Virginia Military Institute.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN—Utah State risks its perfect record against Denver, while Colorado, Colorado State and Colorado College, Utah-Brigham Young and Western State-Wyoming.

NORTHWESTERN GIVEN CHANCE

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(UP)—As solemnly as a man testifying under oath, Lynn Waldorf gave his Northwestern eleven a chance today of doing the "impossible"—a chance of upsetting mighty Minnesota Saturday.

The broad-shouldered, deep-voiced Wildcat coach, who has watched with something approaching amazement the development of his "kids" this season, hastened to agree with the rest of the football world that Minnesota merits ranking as "tops." He refused, however, to concede that Bernie Bierman has a super-team.

"Our scouts say that Minnesota is even greater than last year," he said. "They tell me that, with those lateral clicking, that offense up there really rolls. Against Nebraska, Michigan and Purdue, their defense hasn't been dented. Of course Minnesota is and should be, a big favorite against us."

"But we are not regarding Minnesota as a super-team," he said seriously. "We gained a lot of ground against them last year and gave quite a battle before losing by a touchdown (the score in 1935 was 21 to 13). We are stronger this year. Whether we are good enough is something for Saturday to decide."

Waldorf's hopes for the most stunning of upsets are inspired by the "kids" themselves.

The battle, star attraction of Saturday's national gridiron show, will be played before a capacity crowd of 40,000 in Northwestern's Dyche stadium, the first sell-out since the Notre Dame game of 1930.

'Bama Musicians

Pleased; No Strike

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Rumors of a possible "strike" by Alabama's football band subsided today as bandmaster Carlton Butler said the student musicians, called to the field with the settlement received by them in their recent request for more cooperation from the university.

Butler made the statement as he sent the musicians, dubbed "Bama's million-dollar band," through a brisk rehearsal of songs and drills for special use at Lexington Saturday when Alabama and Kentucky clash.

Slats Hardin Stops Here

Slats Hardin, Olympic champion and one of the great hurdlers of all time, halted briefly in Atlanta yesterday en route to New York from New Orleans by plane. He called Spec Towns, of Georgia, the greatest hurdler ever developed. Photo by George Cornett.

Hardin Says Towns Greatest of Hurdlers

L. S. U. Senior Enroute to New York, Dislikes A. A. U. Handling of Olympics.

By Ralph McGill.

Glenn (Slats) Hardin, immaculate and trim, stepped out of a plane at Candler field yesterday afternoon, en route to New York, and said, among other things:

1—Spec Towns, of Georgia, is the greatest hurdler the game has seen.

2—Hardin is through with track.

3—The Olympic games should be turned over to the college officials to run because the A. A. U. and Olympic committee handling of them is unsatisfactory.

Hardin was most enthusiastic about Towns. "I don't doubt that record he made at Oslo, Norway, at all," he said. "The time of 13.7 for the 110 meters seems almost unbelievable but I don't think there is any doubt but what he did it. That track is famous for its speed. Beards set his record there. And I am sure Towns did. Incidentally, I think he is crazy to play football when he can hurdle as he can."

OLYMPICS MISHANDLED. Hardin thought the handling of the last Olympic games, in which he was the Olympic champion at the 400-meter hurdles, showed conclusively that college officials should take them over.

"The colleges supply 90 per cent of the athletes," he said. "There is no reason why they should train them and teach them and then have to turn them over to some Olympic committee which is dominated by the A. A. U."

"I believe if college officials had been in charge there would have been none of the scandals which helped make unpleasant the last Olympic games as far as the American team was concerned."

"There will be a big fight at the Houston meeting this year. I don't know which side will win but it's time we had a change."

GREAT HURDLER HIMSELF. As for his own athletic career, Hardin, one of the great hurdlers of all time, said definitely he was through.

"I've got to quit some time," he said. "And I figure I've been lucky enough to win about all the honors I could in hurdling. So, I'm through. I graduate this year at L. S. U. and I might as well get down to work. This business of running doesn't pay any bills."

Hardin is one of the most popular students at L. S. U. and is one of America's greatest track and field athletes. The trip to New York is on business.

Clark and Xavier To Play Saturday

Xavier University, of New Orleans, considered the most outstanding colored football aggregation in America, invades Atlanta this week-end to battle Clark University on the Clark athletic field Saturday. This will be Xavier's first visit to Atlanta.

Coached by Ted Wright, former Talladega and Florida A. & M. College mentor, who is ably assisted by Ralph Metcalf, Olympic star and former outstanding track athlete at Marquette University, and L. Pearson, the Xavier eleven, with a wide open brand of football, is expected to be about the strongest team to meet an Atlanta outfit.

HIGH COURT TO RULE ON WAGNER LABOR ACT

Press Association, New Deal Join in Requesting Relations Law Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The number of controversies involving New Deal legislation awaiting a final ruling by the supreme court mounted to eight today when the tribunal agreed to pass upon two challenges of the constitutionality of the Wagner labor relations act.

Arguments on validity of this statute, which seeks to guarantee collective bargaining to workers and empowers a national labor relations board to settle industrial disputes, probably will be heard in December, with a decision in January or February.

The act was challenged by the Associated Press and by the Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coughlin Company. Lower courts upheld the legislation in both cases. The government joined in requesting the high tribunal to grant a review.

Another development today in a brief session which produced action on 35 appeals was a defeat for Illinois Communists attempting to compel state officials to place the names of the party candidates for president and vice president on the ballot for the November 3 election.

Motions to speed up action on the Communist petition and to enjoin Illinois officials from printing or distributing ballots not containing the names of the party nominees were denied.

The court then adjourned until November 9. Even if it consents then to permit an appeal from a decision by lower courts against the Communists, it would be too late to accomplish their purpose since the election would be over.

During the next fortnight, the justices will devote their time to preparing opinions in the 36 cases argued during the last two weeks. None involves New Deal legislation.

In one of the labor relations cases which the court today agreed to review, the Associated Press appealed from a ruling by the circuit court of appeals at New York directing it to reinstate Morris Watson, a discharged employee of the New York office.

Freedom of the press, the press association asserted, was "seriously jeopardized" by the legislation. This was disputed by the government through Solicitor General Stanley Reed.

SMITH, LANDON FLEW BY GENERAL JOHNSON

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(UP)—General Hugh Johnson cracked down on Governor Alf M. Landon in a biting address tonight, charging the Republican presidential candidate "was the dullest New Dealer in all the west."

"That was the only way he could be governor," the former NRA warrior continued. "Now to be president he is denouncing all that he then demanded. What is he? Where does he stand?"

Johnson also bombarded former New York Governor Alfred E. Smith and challenged the "Happy Warrior" to a debate on whether President Roosevelt has "ditched the 1932 platform" of the Democratic party.

"I have tried to examine the Republican argument in this campaign," Johnson pointed out. "It is all negative. It is criticism. There is nothing constructive about it."

Concluding his address, delivered in a local theater and broadcast over a nation-wide hookup, General Johnson said:

"If you believe that this is and ought to be a government of, by and for the people, you will go to the polls on November 3, and mark your ballots for the greatest exponent of the principles of Democratic government since Jefferson and Jackson—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

U. S. BEING SOLD OUT, SAYS LEMKE IN OHIO

MANSFIELD, Ohio, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Representative William Lemke, of North Dakota, Union party candidate for president, charged today that "under the present administration this country is being sold out to the international bankers at a rate never before reached in the history of the nation."

In an address prepared for delivery at a mass meeting here Lemke said "these brain trusters... are building up tax burdens that are shocking this country for many generations."

He said the Union party platform called for establishment of a central bank of issue. Thereafter, he said, Congress would retire "all tax-exempt, interest-bearing bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the federal government, and refundance all present agricultural indebtedness for the farmer and all home mortgage indebtedness for the city owner by use of its money and credit now given to the control of private banks."

DOBSON, BURTON SPEAK AT SCHOOL MEETING

CALHOUN, Ga., Oct. 26.—(AP)—An educated racialist, said W. A. Dobson, regional Boy Scout executive of Atlanta, today, "is a menace to society and an educated weakling is a disappointment to the social order."

Dobson outlined the fundamentals of education and the boy training program with which he is connected in an address before a regional meeting of the Georgia Educational Association.

Discussing what he called "concomitant education," Dobson said it means that the teacher of today is "not so much concerned with a child's grades, as she is with the child's attitudes towards its lessons, its associates, its school and its home."

Rush Burton, editor of the Lavonia Times, told the educators and school teachers that if the 15-mill tax limitation amendment is adopted, common schools would suffer 40 per cent loss in income and that local schools will be supplanted by a central board in the state capital.

PACT WITH JAPANESE IS DENIED BY ROME

ROME, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Japan and Italy "see eye to eye" against Communism, Italian government officials said tonight.

These officials, however, denied persistent reports of a supposed secret pact among Germany, Italy and Japan against Russia and Bolshevism in Europe and Asia.

An authoritative source said there was no official indication that Japan had entered the accord already announced between Germany and Italy against Bolshevism.

Rumors of the three-party agreement gained credibility today, however, because of an article in the newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia by the authoritative commentator, Virginio Gayda.

Gayda, who frequently echoes the views of Mussolini, wrote that Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany has "decisively reared up against Communism, and that Japan" adheres "to their position."

Japan also holds to the "similarity of the two nations' views and purposes," Gayda wrote.

PENSION RETIREMENT IS ASKED BY TEACHER

Application for retirement on pension was filed yesterday by Miss Margie L. Webster, teacher at the Spring Street school and a member of the Atlanta school system for more than 25 years.

She seeks retirement, effective November 10, as provided under the employees' pension ordinance.

The application will be passed on by a board composed of Mayor Key, City Treasurer Henry B. Kennedy and Comptroller B. Graham West. Miss Webster has taught in the Calhoun, Forrest Lee, Spring and Tenth Street schools.

COUGHLIN SAYS F. D. R. IS 'SCAB PRESIDENT'

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin tonight called Franklin D. Roosevelt the "scab president" and termed him "the greatest employer of scab labor in all history."

The WPA, he said, was a "great scab army," which he added, was paid an insufficient wage. A throng which jammed Cleveland's public hall gave the priest, on his third visit here this year, a noisy welcome, and interspersed his remarks with vigorous applause.

When Coughlin arrived here a deputy sheriff, Walter Kiewel, scuffled with detectives guarding him and later claimed he had served the priest with a subpoena in a suit seeking to oust him as head of the National Union for Social Justice.

Asserting that the WPA workers were paid $50.03 a month, Coughlin was interrupted by a voice from the gallery shouting, "and they want some of that back."

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT DEFENDED BY GREEN

A. F. of L. Head Says Wage Earners Are Beneficiaries of This Law.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Rallying to the defense of the social security act, which has become a major issue of the campaign, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said tonight it was a form of legislation for which workers had prayed for many years.

In a letter to all state federations of labor, city central bodies and local unions, Green said there was "grave danger that widespread confusion and serious misunderstanding may occur in the minds of working people and their friends regarding the provisions of the federal social security act."

"The wage earners of the nation are the beneficiaries of this act," he added. "Through the application of its provisions they will be permitted to face old age with a feeling of security because... they will be guaranteed the payment of an annuity ranging from $10 to $85 per month."

Green's letter made no mention of criticism directed at the act by Governor Alf M. Landon, who has attacked its provisions for a pay roll tax and other features.

The expression by the labor federation president closely followed an assertion by Arthur J. Altmeier, member of the social security board, that "misleading" information was being circulated to workers concerning the act.

Green said he "deemed it necessary" to acquaint the officers and members of the American Federation of Labor and their friends "with the true facts connected with the payment of federal old age benefits." He said he was doing so "free from bias of any kind."

deputy sheriff, Walter Kiewel, scuffled with detectives guarding him and later claimed he had served the priest with a subpoena in a suit seeking to oust him as head of the National Union for Social Justice.

Asserting that the WPA workers were paid $50.03 a month, Coughlin was interrupted by a voice from the gallery shouting, "and they want some of that back."

PEACE AND SECURITY AT STAKE—RUSSELL

Georgia Senator Denounces Landon's Talks as Echoes of Hoover in '32.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 26.—(AP)—United States Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, said tonight a repudiation of the Democratic administration would endanger the continued prosperity, peace, liberty and security of the American people.

Russell spoke at a meeting sponsored by the Jacksonville Young Democratic Club.

"This campaign," he declared, "is a fight of the people to determine whether or not they are going to hold all the things they have gained during the past three and one-half years and whether or not they are going to maintain control of our government."

The senator lashed out at the campaign speeches of Governor Landon, the Republican nominee.

"Landon's promises sound like echoes of Hoover's talks in 1932," he said.

"President Roosevelt is the greatest proponent of Americanism this country has known in many years," Russell declared.

"The last chance of the Communists and Socialists to overthrow the government of the United States passed when President Roosevelt restored prosperity."

deputy sheriff, Walter Kiewel, scuffled with detectives guarding him and later claimed he had served the priest with a subpoena in a suit seeking to oust him as head of the National Union for Social Justice.

Police To Escort Body Of Californian's Mother

At the request of her son—a veteran Los Angeles policeman, who is ill and unable to come here—members of the Atlanta police department will attend funeral services today for Mrs. Grace P. Wilson, of 285 Pryor street, who died last Friday.

The son, Marion Wilson, requested Atlanta police to act as pallbearers, and Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant detailed Assistant Chief A. J. Holcombe, Lieutenant C. F. Allen, Detective Pat Campbell and Patrolmen Steve Felder, George F. Cole and J. D. Strubling to act as honorary escort.

The rites will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, with the Rev. Charles Reihans officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery, under direction of Brandon-Bond-Condou.

DUBLIN YOUTH HELD IN DEATH OF FATHER

DUBLIN, Ga., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Twelve-year-old Russell Smith tonight was held on an open charge after confessing he shot and killed his father because he abused his family under the influence of liquor.

The boy confessed to the sheriff he shot his father in the back Sunday while the elder Smith slept. His mother and other members of the family were absent from the home at the time, he said.

DOCK STRIKE THURSDAY THREATENS ON PACIFIC

U. S. Abruptly Ends Inquiry; Disputants Criticize New Commission.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Representatives of 37,000 coast maritime workers announced today a strike would be called Wednesday midnight unless "fundamental issues" are settled, while employers and unions criticized the United States Maritime Commission which opened and quickly adjourned a waterfront investigation.

Both sides telegraphed the commission in Washington protesting the action of Rear Admiral Harry G. Hamlet, commission representative, who adjourned the initial investigation session.

He said he wished to give representatives for each side more time to negotiate. The representatives said no meetings were scheduled, but later shipowners and sailors met briefly and adjourned without comment.

Admiral Hamlet called the next meeting for Thursday morning, which shipowners pointed out would be after the strike deadline. He said a strike will render the proposed investigation wholly ineffectual if not impossible.

In Washington, the Maritime Commission said in a statement:
"The commission feels that our shipping must continue to move during this investigation and repeats its requests and expects that this will be done under latest agreements until the investigation is completed and the facts announced."
The commission, promising an investigation "which will be full and complete," has administration of $100,000,000 in ship subsidies, as well as matters pertaining to wages and working conditions of seafaring men.

THOMAS SEES RIOTING SHOULD RELIEF BE CUT

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, bringing his campaign to Connecticut for the second time within three days, asserted today that "not all the Landon or Liberty Leaguers in the United States can balance the budget by a drastic cut in relief without riots."

He contended in a radio speech that "neither will a continuance of the New Deal program with its politics, its WPA wages, its failure by more than a million to fulfill the President's promise to put three and one-half million men back to work, succeeded."

Predicting President Roosevelt's re-election, Thomas said:
"The unlikely event of Landon's election will not fulfill the slogan of 'Land a job with Landon.' You are more likely to 'Hit the rocks with Knox.'"

PURE...and of finer texture than most anything that touches your lips...

We all agree on this... cigarette paper is important. For Chesterfield we use the best paper that we can buy. It is called Champagne Cigarette Paper. It is made from the soft, silky fibre of the flax plant. It is washed over and over in clear, sparkling water.

A lot of the pleasure you get in smoking Chesterfields is due to our using the right kind of cigarette paper. Chesterfield paper is pure, and it burns without taste or odor.

Chesterfield

They're Milder and They Satisfy

Remember this... two things make the smoking quality of a cigarette—the tobaccos and the paper. The Champagne cigarette paper on Chesterfields is tested over and over for purity, for the right burning quality. Another reason why Chesterfield wins.
